The House in the Wind Alena Ribisel, 2016-12-14 The teller of the story, a young man, financially independent, is traveling around the world. Occasionally he finds his favourite house which is situated on the solitary seashore. He invites his only friend from childhood, Anna. During Anna's stay she has an amazing dream. In this dream Anna sees herself in the past already having been in this house. When she gets known to a man who enjoys sunrises on the beach and who lived as a painter exactly in this house twenty years ago, Anna understands that it must be something more behind her dream. Anna and painter are starting an emotional relationship. But finished it after a while. When they met again after one year, deciding to live together, the painter falls ill. Shortly before he dies, he presents Anna a painting which he painted twenty years ago during his stay in the house in the wind. The painting shows Anna exactly like she saw herself in her dream.
