H. Khalif Khalifah

Bumpy Johnson Gary Johnson, 2016-03-05 Bumpy Johnson was many things in his life, to many people. He was a stick up man, a burglar, a pimp, a drug dealer, a numbers runner, a bookmaker, a hood and a thug. He was also a husband and a father and a doting grandfather. He was the conduit between Harlem and the Genovese Crime Family. He was a respected friend of Lucky Luciano. He was a man of Harlem, giving to the needy, the hungry, and children. He was a staunch advocate for education, urging neighborhood children to stay in school and make something of themselves. He was a friend to the actors, starlets, and musicians who came from Harlem and who spent their late nights partying there. He spent time with the activists of the era, such as Malcolm X. He was a legend, all of Harlem knew him, many of Harlem still do.

Making a Promised Land Paula J. Massood, 2013-01-22 Making a Promised Land examines the interconnected histories of African American representation, urban life, and citizenship as documented in still and moving images of Harlem over the last century. Paula J. Massood analyzes how photography and film have been used over time to make African American culture visible to itself and to a wider audience and charts the ways in which the “Mecca of the New Negro” became a battleground in the struggle to define American politics, aesthetics, and citizenship. Visual media were first used as tools for uplift and education. With Harlem’s downturn in fortunes through the 1930s, narratives of black urban criminality became common in sociological tracts, photojournalism, and film. These narratives were particularly embodied in the gangster film, which was adapted to include stories of achievement, economic success, and, later in the century, a nostalgic return to the past. Among the films discussed are Fights of Nations (1907), Dark Manhattan (1937), The Cool World (1963), Black Caesar (1974), Malcolm X (1992), and American Gangster (2007). Massood asserts that the history of photography and film in Harlem provides the keys to understanding the neighborhood’s symbolic resonance in African American and American life, especially in light of recent urban redevelopment that has redefined many of its physical and demographic contours.

Killing Made Men Kyle Mccaskill, 2025-06-13 Two Iconic Crime Lords. Two Identical Heart Attacks. One Explosive Theory. Their deaths were recorded as natural. The timing was anything but. As Lucky Luciano finalized his tell-all biopic at Naples Airport in 1962, Italian police prepared to arrest him for running a global heroin empire. He collapsed of heart failure minutes later. Six years later, Harlem's feared kingpin Bumpy Johnson—facing life in prison for a nationwide narcotics operation—dropped dead eating lunch in New York. His cause of death? The same convenient diagnosis: congestive heart failure. Now, We ask questions about a chilling pattern: Could it be? The CIA's secret alliance with organized crime during the Cold War? Toxin programs designed to induce undetectable heart attacks? A systematic silencing of witnesses who knew too much? The Naples Convenience, uncover Luciano's shadow role in CIA-Mafia plots and the medical contradictions surrounding his death. Harlem's Last Supper, follow Bumpy Johnson's battle against federal prosecutors and the forensic anomalies ignored after his collapse. Why did the world's most powerful intelligence agency target these men? What secrets died with them? And how did identical heart attacks deliver perfect justice for the state? Killing Made Men weaves forensic evidence, witness testimony, and geopolitical analysis into a gripping investigation that asks: Were two of history's greatest crime bosses eliminated by the very government that hunted them? Perfect for readers of: Killers of the Flower Moon • Chaos by Tom O'Neill • The Devil's Chessboard

The Harlem Cultural/political Movements, 1960-1970 Abiola Sinclair, 1995 When the United States entered World War II in 1941, Charles Bradley enlisted in the army. An avid skier and mountaineer with a degree in geology, he quickly found himself among the first members of the new 10th Mountain Division, the only unit of the U.S. Army established to train men in mountain combat. Soon, Bradley was training candidates for a potential ground assault on Japan and in a new theater for mountain warfare: the magnificent but potentially life-threatening Aleutian Islands. Bradley's military career kept him from the front lines of the war, but he and his companions had their own battles with loneliness and fatigue, with Aleutian weather and terrain, and with the military brass. The Axis powers were real enough, but the immediate enemy was the environment. It was Bradley's job, now on assignment with the North Pacific Combat School, to help teach his trainees the skills of survival and mobility under conditions that included rugged terrain, glaciers, fierce winds, heavy rains and snow storms, and the threat of avalanches. Each story of confrontation with that rugged environment is balanced by one of discovery and awe. The Aleutians could be dangerous, but they were also an unspoiled realm for adventure and fascination. Soldier Bradley also grew as an artist; his interest in the natural history and geography of the islands is reflected in his paintings of what he saw near his posts, first at Unalaska and later at Adak. It is also reflected in his honest, insightful prose. Bradley is a writer with his own voice, his own clear way of conveying how recruits struggle or how ravens play. Aleutian Echoes is one man's carefully observed, sometimes wry memoir of natural wonders and unnatural challenges.

Harlem Godfather Mayme Hatcher Johnson, Karen E. Quinones Miller, 2008 The first and only full biography on legendary Harlem gangster, Bumpy Johnson who was depicted in the movies Cotton Club, Hoodlum, and American Gangster. ... Bumpy was a man whose contradictions are still the root of many an argument in Harlem. But there is one thing on which both his supporters and detractors agree in his lifetime, Bumpy was the man in Harlem. --p. [4] of cover.
