European Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing in the 21st Century José Carlos Santos, John R. Cutcliffe, 2018-02-01 This groundbreaking first volume of the Series has a number of features that set it apart from other books on this subject: Firstly, it focuses on interpersonal, humanistic and ecological views and approaches to P/MH nursing. Secondly, it highlights patient/client-centered approaches and mental-health-service user involvement. Lastly, it is a genuinely European P/MH nursing textbook – the first of its kind – largely written by mental health scholars from Europe, although it also includes contributions from North America and Australia/New Zealand. Focusing on clinical/practical issues, theory and empirical findings, it adopts an evidence-based or evidence-informed approach. Each contribution presents the state-of-the-art of P/MH nursing in Europe so that it can be transferred to and implemented by P/MH nurses and the broader mental health care community around the globe. As such, it will be the first genuinely 21st century European Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing book.

The Deacon Thomas Fagnoli, 2024-04-26 We often end up living an “unexpected” life. Yet through it, glimmers of hope, faith, love, and peace find their way through. After being married for forty years and serving the Catholic Church as a deacon for the last five years, leaving the diaconate was the last thing on my mind. Life was good – wife, home, children, grandchildren, health, retirement, and an amazing ministry. Never did I expect to be a suicide survivor. Grieving the loss of my wife was difficult enough, but with suicide, the grieving process was much more intense. Being a deacon in the Catholic Church intensified that process even more. The Catholic Church made it clear. I could not stay a deacon and pursue another loving relationship that could lead to marriage. I was aware of the rule, but after two years of discernment, I couldn’t seem to make a decision. This battle put me into the hospital for open-heart surgery. Finally, with God’s help, I made my decision. Rick, a local reporter, wanted to interview me with regard to my diaconate experience and how I came to that decision. Rick turned out to be more than a reporter. This is my story. Through it, I hope glimmers of hope, faith, love and peace find their way through your clouds as well. Proceeds go to Suicide Awareness

Sacred Sorrows John E. Nelson, Andrea Nelson, 1996 Fatigue, boredom, loneliness, anxiety, despair, guilt, personal loss, meaninglessness, feelings of inadequacy, addictions, eating disorders, biological imbalances--all of these may cause or be caused by depression. From Prozac to LSD, from behaviorism to chaos theory, from body work to Buddhism, the authors in this collection present new ways of looking at and working with depression, a disease that touches every one of us at some time in our lives. This poignant and provocative anthology includes the stories of people who have personally struggled with and overcome depression, and of those who have learned to embrace depression as part of their psychological and spiritual growth. The authors describe the most effective therapies for treating depression, including alternative approaches in medicine, nutrition, and psychotherapy. What emerges is a new transpersonal perspective that integrates soulfulness, spirituality, and transcendence into our understanding and treatment of depression. This book provides essential reading for anyone suffering from depression, for students of psychology, and for therapists who must help others cope with this devastating condition.

Un/belonging Identities: Relating Narratives of Queer Trauma Mark Vicars, Jordan Gonzalez, Liam Wrigley, Jonathan Glazzard, 2025-11-13 This Research Topic will examine the impact of trauma as it relates to the lived experiences of well-being on and in LGBTQIA+ lives in educational domains. The papers in the Topic will (re)present kaleidoscopic experiences of the social and cultural landscapes of the performative abjection of Queer gender and sexuality as experienced in and across cultural differences and intersectionality in school settings. The papers in the collection will draw on the sociology of affect as a lens for addressing how social and emotional well-being in LGBTQIA+ lives is a constant negotiation for young people. The concept of social well-being has been instrumental in bringing together a number of burgeoning disciplines across the social field sector and this Research Topic will focus on how LGBTQIA+ self-identified young people navigate historical traumas, social isolation and generate social well-being in their personal lives and communities. Researchers like Van der Kolk (2015) and Perry and Winfrey (2021) draw our attention to the impact of trauma on the body and the brain. They highlight the damaging and often long-term effect of trauma on brain development and the nervous system. Attention is also given to the ways in which trauma can inhibit, weaken and alter higher order thinking skills, concentration and neurological pathways in the brain. The body's response to trauma can also result in a constant release of hormones such as adrenalin and cortisol that can lead to a heightened nervous system. To date there has been limited research on LGBTQI+ trauma informed narratives and their effects in Queer life worlds. The Research Topic will disseminate trauma-informed educative frameworks of practice, strengths-based resources and culturally inclusive language protocols (Greig, Bailey, Abbott, & Brunzell, 2021).

Freudians and Schadenfreudians Jeffrey Berman, 2024-08-22 Sigmund Freud can be a polarizing figure, beloved by many and despised by some. Focusing on eight key writers and scholars who either passionately loved or gleefully loathed Freud, this book represents Freud's wide legacy, the reach of his ideas, their controversies, and their ability still to provoke, inspire, confound, outrage, and compel. The book begins by focusing on four highly prolific authors whose admiration for Freud is boundless: Lionel Trilling, Harold Bloom, Kurt R. Eissler, and Peter Gay. Berman then explores four more writers whose aim was not simply to debunk Freud and destroy his monstrous creation but to cast both into hell: D. H. Lawrence, Vladimir Nabokov, Thomas Szasz, and Frederick Crews. Each chapter discusses the author's involvement with Freud, exploring the continuities and discontinuities of his or her writings, as well as offering snapshots of the writers, suggesting how their personal and professional lives were inextricably related. Berman draws out some surprising commonalities between the Freudolaters and Schadenfreudians, going on to discuss the current state of psychoanalysis and the “psychoanalytic credos” by which contemporary analysts live.
