Advanced Neuroradiology Cases Lázaro Luís Faria do Amaral, Asim K. Bag, Fabrício Guimarães Gonçalves, Prasad B. Hanagandi, Suzanne Bryan-Parker, 2016-12-22 Featuring atypical cases and focusing on advanced imaging techniques, this book presents a compilation of unusual CNS pathologies with characteristic imaging findings. The aim is to aid the speedy diagnosis of otherwise rarely encountered clinical conditions and improve patient care. Presented as more than 130 real cases with extensive imaging description and step-by-step guidelines on how to diagnose individual pathologies, each scenario is backed by the most up-to-date literature available. The cases include some of the most recently described clinical conditions. The case-based format and description of each clinical journey encourages readers to engage with the diagnostic process and facilitates self-study. This book is for any radiologist who practices neuroradiology, neuroradiology fellows, neuroimaging fellows, practicing neurologist and neurology residents.

Critical Care of the Stroke Patient Stefan Schwab, Daniel Hanley, A. David Mendelow, 2014-06-05 New and groundbreaking therapeutic options for the critical care of patients with cerebrovascular disease have improved patient management, minimized morbidity, reduced in-patient care, improved quality of life, and had a positive economic impact on health service provision. This volume integrates these approaches and suggests the best therapy option for all cerebrovascular conditions. The early chapters of the book focus on monitoring techniques and interventions. Subsequent sections address the critical care of a wide range of cerebrovascular diseases: ischemic stroke, intracranial hemorrhage, subarachnoid hemorrhage, arteriovenous malformations, cerebral venous thrombosis and traumatic injury. The editors and authors are internationally recognized experts in their field, and the text is supplemented by tables and illustrations to demonstrate important clinical findings. This book will meet the needs of stroke physicians, neurologists, neurosurgeons, neurointensivists and interventional neuroradiologists seeking to maximize positive outcomes for their patients.

Cranioplasty D. Stula,2012-12-06 This monograph presents a comprehensive review of the clinical experience in surgical repair of cranial defects which the author has gained during a period of over ten years. Particular problems of patients undergoing cranioplasty, such as neurological impairments, EEG changes, variations of intracranial pressure, and sinking skin flap syndrome are described and discussed. The author presents convincing evidence of the importance of cranioplasty in improving the quality of life of patients with large and disfiguring cranial defects. Unfortunately, cranioplasty still ameliorates only to a minimal extent the general condition in patients suffering of major cerebral lesions. I am convinced that this volume will serve the purpose it was designed for : that it will be a most helpful introduction into the problems related to reconstructive surgery. Head and Neck Imaging Variants Achilles Karagianis, 2016-03-22 More than 4,800 illustrations address common head and neck imaging issues most often faced by radiologists in clinical practice Head and Neck Imaging Variants delivers more than 375 cases and 4,800 illustrations to help you determine whether a finding is truly abnormal or merely a variant and to avoid common imaging pitfalls. Imaging variants affecting all areas of head and neck imaging are addressed. Companion cases are included with almost all of the primary variant cases to help illustrate key differentiating imaging features. In addition, because interpreting the postoperative and irradiated neck can be a daunting task, a large number of these cases are included in this textbook. Since it is vital to understand the important characteristics of a variant or disease process in order to interpret imaging accurately, short discussions about the variant and relevant pathology are included. Salient features of the more common head and neck surgical procedures pertinent to image interpretation are also discussed.

FEATURES: Valuable to the radiologist who interprets head and neck imaging as well as to residents and fellows Peer reviewed literature provided and referenced for the variants as well as for the companion cases Large, high-resolution images that clearly annotate the imaging findings ABOUT THE MCGRAW-HILL RADIOLOGY SERIES This innovative series offers indispensable workstation reference material for the practicing radiologist. Within this series is a full range of practical, clinically relevant works divided into three categories: PATTERNS: Organized by modality, these books provide a pattern-based approach to constructing practical differential diagnosis VARIANTS: Structured by modality as well as anatomy, these graphic references aid the radiologist in reducing false-positive rates CASES: Classic case presentations with an emphasis on differential diagnosis and clinical context

The authors provide thorough coverage of why these drains are placed, why they are placed in certain locations, how they are placed, and what steps to take when there is a malfunction. Postural Neurologic Deficits After Decompressive Craniectomy for Traumatic Brain Injury: A Case Series of Sinking Skin Flap Syndrome Heather MacKenzie, 2017 Context: Sinking Skin Flap Syndrome (SSFS) is a clinical syndrome in which a patient with a craniectomy develops objective neurologic abnormalities explained by the concavity of their skin flap and the pressure of the atmosphere on the underlying brain. Patients present with postural headaches and delayed neurologic deficits that localize to the craniectomy site where atmospheric pressure compresses the brain under the skin. These symptoms and signs are reversible when supine and after cranioplasty. SSFS is thought to be a rare complication of craniectomy after traumatic brain injury (TBI); however, evidence suggests SSFS is under-recognized, in part due to its diverse clinical presentation. We present two patients who developed SSFS during inpatient multidisciplinary rehabilitation. As available, qualitative behavioural observation, manual muscle testing (MMT), Timed Up and Go (TUG), Berg, 6-minute walk test (6MWT), O-Log, SCATBI, MoCA and neuroimaging pre- and post-cranioplasty are presented. Case 1: 72-year-old woman with a severe TBI requiring left hemicraniectomy. On admission to rehabilitation, TUG was 62sec, Berg 20/56, and SCATBI 4words/min. Postural headache, nausea and vomiting limited her participation. During rehabilitation, she deteriorated; consistently after 20min standing or 2hrs sitting, she developed headache, worsening MMT in the right arm and leg (from MRC 3-5 to MRC 2-3) and telegraphic speech. After sitting up for 6hrs, the patient became stuporous with GCS12. Infectious, metabolic, and epileptic causes were ruled out; she was diagnosed with SSFS and planned for cranioplasty. Neuroimaging showed paradoxical pressure on the brain from the skin over the left hemispheric craniectomy site. While awaiting surgery, the patient was restricted to head elevation
