Softwaretest in der Praxis Stefan Schmerler, 2020-12-05 Dieses Buch ist als praktische Hilfestellung für all jene gedacht, die sich als Entwickler, Manager oder Studierende mit der Fragestellung des effizienten Testens von Software auseinandersetzen. Anhand vieler konkreter Beispiele aus der Praxis und fast 400 Illustrationen wird leicht verständlich vermittelt, auf welche Weise Software heute getestet wird und welche Werkzeuge und Testsysteme dabei zum Einsatz kommen. Ein zentraler Punkt dieses Buchs ist die Testmethodik - das Wie macht die Musik! Bereits durch Beachtung einfacher Grundregeln bei der Testfallermittlung kann mit geringeren Aufwänden in kürzerer Zeit der Reifegrad von Software deutlich über das Maß gesteigert werden als dies beim unsystematische (und leider oft anzutreffenden) Drauflos-Testen der Fall wäre. Konkret adressiert das Buch folgende Fragestellungen: Welche Testtechnologie soll eingesetzt werden für mein spezifisches Problem? Wie lange und mit welchem Aufwand sollte ich testen, um guten Gewissens (was auch immer das beim Testen heißen mag) die Testphase abbrechen zu können? Wie hoch ist das dann noch verbleibende Risiko, wie fehleranfällig ist mein System dann noch? Gibt es eine Metrik für Reifegrad und Qualität von Software, die einfach und schnell anzuwenden ist? Für die häufigsten Testprobleme werden Schritt-für-Schritt-Anleitungen hinsichtlich Testfallermittlung vorgeschlagen, um mit minimalem Aufwand die größtmögliche Absicherungstiefe zu erzielen. Der Leitfaden kann unmittelbar eingesetzt werden in fast jedem Softwareentwicklungsprojekt. Neben dem klassischen Softwaretest (dynamische und statische Testverfahren, Test von Echtzeitsystemen, modellbasierter Test u.a.), werden wichtige Aspekte der Absicherung eingebetteter Software am Beispiel der Automobilelektronik detailliert erläutert, z. B. Hardware-, Software-, Model- und Vehicle-in-the-Loop-Technologie, virtuelle Integration bis hin zum Test von Fahrerassistenzsystemen und der Software für Autonomes Fahren.

Diagnose in mechatronischen Fahrzeugsystemen XIII Bernard Bäker, Andreas Unger, 2019-04-23 Moderne Diagnoseinfrastrukturen sind gekennzeichnet durch immer bessere Integration von standardisierten Technologien und etablierten Analysemethoden. Dazu gehören neben Diagnosedaten, Transportprotokollen und Diagnoseabläufen ebenso Diagnosemethoden, sowohl im Fahrzeug als auch Offboardseitig im gesamten Fahrzeuglebenszyklus. Moderne Fahrzeuge, insbesondere vor dem Hintergrund des hochautomatisierten Fahrens und der funktionalen Vernetzung mit einer Backend Infrastruktur, gliedern sich zukünftig mit ihren neuen Assistenzfunktionen in eine weltweit vernetzte Funktionslandschaft ein. Welche Auswirkungen hat diese Entwicklung auf die zukünftige Diagnoselandschaft und welche Herausforderungen sind im Rahmen zukünftiger Test-, Prüf- und Diagnoseanwendungen zu lösen? Fortschreitende Entwicklungen in den Bereichen des Maschinenlernens und der künstlichen Intelligenz eröffnen hierbei neue Möglichkeiten. Anhand aktueller Entwicklungsberichte, Systemvorstellungen und Praxisbeiträgen werden der aktuelle Stand und die Trends für FundE im Themenfeld Diagnose, Test und Prüfung vorgestellt sowie neue Lösungen erörtert. Die Interessenten: Spezialisten und Anwender der Bereiche: Systemvernetzung – Software- und Hardwareentwicklung – Forschung und (Vor-) Entwicklung – Systementwicklung, Applikation und Test – Produktion und Qualitätssicherung – Service und Kundendienst Die Herausgeber: Dipl.-Ing. Between Text and Text Michaela Bauks, Wayne Horowitz, Bernd Hene, 2013-06-19 The intertextuality research of antique texts and their reception in Medieval and modern times is the subject of this volume: (1) What is a text and what is an intertext? This concerns the various different forms of text and how they present themselves in architecture, iconography, lexicography, the study of lists, etc. (2) Forms of intertextuality – on the relationship between writtenness and oralness, how oral texts are objectified during textualisation and become fixed acts of speech (K. Ehlich), how especially antique texts were shaped by the continual interconnectedness of oral and written traditions. (3) What is understood in ancient Oriental and antique literature by tradition and transmission? To this end, the research includes languages, historical reality and antique thought structures, making clear that the transferral of tradition occurs not only within a close cultural circle, but in the exchange with neighbouring cultures over large distances and geographic boundaries. (4) On the relationship between intertextuality and canon. A number of contributions study this aspect of ongoing historical debate as it often found for culturally definitive and canonised texts – a necessary part of their rejuvenation process. Contributions by M. Bauks, A. Lange / Z. Plese, Ph. Alexandre, S. Aufrère, M. Oeming, K. Davidowicz, A. Wagner, G. Selz, M.F. Meyer, L. Roig Lanzillotta, M. Dimitrova, F. Waldman, W. Horowitz, M. Risch, J. van Ruiten, L. Bormann, A. Miltenova, J. Taschner, G. Brooke, G. Dorival, A. Harder and S. Alkier.

The Patent-Competition Interface in Developing Countries Thomas K. Cheng, 2021-12-16 This book proposes an approach to the patent-competition interface for developing countries. It puts forward a theoretical framework after canvassing relevant policy considerations and examines the many reasons why patent protection is not essential for generating innovation incentives in developing countries. These include the tendency of the patent system to overcompensate innovators, the availability of other appropriation mechanisms for innovators to monetize their innovations, and the lack of appropriate technological capacity in many developing countries to take advantage of the incentives generated by the patent system. It also argues that developing countries with a small population need not pay heed to the impact of their patent system on the incentives of foreign innovators. It then proposes a classification of developing countries into production countries, technology adaptation countries, and proto-innovation countries and argues that dynamic efficiency considerations take on different meanings for developing countries depending on their technological capacities. For the vast majority of developing countries bereft of meaningful innovation capacity, foreign technology transfer is the main vehicle for technological progress. The chief dynamic policy consideration for these countries is hence incentives for technology transfer instead of innovation incentives. There are three main means of voluntary technology transfer: importation of technological goods, foreign direct investment, and technology licensing. Competition law regulation of patent exploitation practices interacts with these three means of technology transfer in different ways and an appropriate approach to the patent-competition interface for these countries needs to take these into account. Distilling all these considerations, the book proposes a development stage-specific approach to the patent-competition interface for developing countries. The approach is then applied to a number of patent exploitation practices, including unilateral refusal to deal, patent tying, excessive pricing for pharmaceuticals, reverse payment settlements, and restrictive licensing practices.

The Grammar of Carnatic Music K.G. Vijayakrishnan, 2008-09-25 This book argues that Carnatic music as it is practiced today can be traced to the musical practices of early/mid eighteenth century. Earlier varieties or 'incarnations' of Indian music elaborately described in many musical treatises are only of historical relevance today as the music described is quite different from current practices. It is argued that earlier varieties may not have survived because they failed to meet the three crucial requirements for a language-like organism to survive i.e., a robust community of practitioners/listeners which the author calls the Carnatic Music Fraternity, a sizeable body of musical texts and a felt communicative need. In fact, the central thesis of the book is that Carnatic music, like language, survived and evolved from early/mid eighteenth century when these three requirements were met for the first time in the history of Indian music. The volume includes a foreword by Paul Kiparsky.

Research Handbook on Abuse of Dominance and Monopolization Pinar Akman, Or Brook, Konstantinos Stylianou, 2023-01-20 This Research Handbook offers a comprehensive and state-of-the-art collection on the competition law (antitrust) prohibition of abuse of a dominant position and monopolization. It draws from the long and influential traditions of leading jurisdictions such as the European Union and the United States to analyse applicable rules and policy in these jurisdictions. It also takes a comparative approach to identify common threads and differences.

Migration Happens Katarina Ferro, 2006 Migration happens. Migration is a global phenomenon that did not just emerge in the 21st century. It is perceived by many as a constant source of problems and threats. This notion is propagated by politicians, among others, who use migrants for to further their own political ideologies. Due to economic and security developments globally, migration is beset by increasing ethnical conflicts and restrictive immigration policies. This in turn creates heightened difficulties for migrants. But it also generates new life situations, shapes lives and reshapes identities. The region of the South-Pacific is no exception. Considering conflicts in recent years, the issue of migration in this area exemplifies the contestation over migration. This book provides an overview on migration issues in the South Pacific. Issues such as gender, the historical aspects and the history of migration in the Pacific, migration and conflicts, challenges for second generation migrants as well as the situation of Indians after the coup in Fiji are addressed in this volume of the NOVARA - Contributions of Research in the Pacific.

Hebrew Bible / Old Testament. III: From Modernism to Post-Modernism Magne Sæbø, Jean Louis Ska, Peter Machinist, 2014-12-10 The long and complex history of reception and interpretation of the Hebrew Bible / Old Testament through the ages, described in the HBOT Project, focuses in this concluding volume III, Part 2 on the multifarious research and the different methods used in the last century. Even this volume is written by Christian and Jewish scholars and takes its wider cultural and philosophical context into consideration. The perspective is worldwide and ecumenical. Its references to modern biblical scholarship, on which it is based, are extensive and updated. The indexes (names, topics, references to biblical sources and a broad body of literature beyond) are the key to the wealth of information provided. Contributors are J. Barton, H.L. Bosman, A.F.
