Electromagnetic Environmental Effects (E3) Control Within the Space and Naval Warfare Systems Systems Command and Warfare Systems of the Battle Force SPACE AND NAVAL WARFARE SYSTEMS COMMAND WASHINGTON DC.,1991 The purpose of this SPAWAR instruction is to implement policy and establish requirements and responsibilities for the control of electromagnetic environmental effects (E3) in the Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command (SPAWARSYSCOM) cognizant systems and equipment, and among warfare systems within the Battle Force (BF). The requirements and procedures prescribed by this instruction apply to SPAWARSYSCOM Headquarters and all SPAWARSYSCOM activities that plan, develop, test, procure, lease, construct, modify, install, maintain, and operate SPAWARSYSCOM cognizant electronic and electrical systems, subsystems, and equipment for aerospace, ship, and shore stations, including those intended for the Marine Corps. In addition, this instruction applies to the activities that predict, detect, analyze, and resolve Electromagnetic Interference (EMI) problems with force level impact. The Electromagnetic Environment (EME) of the BF encompasses Joint and Allied Forces as well as the U.S. Navy platforms.

Integrated Logistic Support Concerns, Electromagnetic Environmental Effects ,1991 The Department of the Army Electromagnetic Environmental effects (E3) Program is an effort to incorporate electromagnetic considerations into weapon system vulnerability assessment. The program attempts to insure that Army systems function properly in predicted electromagnetic environments. If shortcomings in system design and operational performance are found, steps are taken to correct the deficiencies. This paper represents an Integrated Logistic Support approach to interfacing with the E3 Program and the E3 Program and the E3 engineer. A better weapon system will result if Electromagnetic Environmental Effects are considered during the development of an Logistic Support Analysis Strategy. Ensuring that the design engineer is aware of supportability concerns during the design process is a primary goal of the Integrated Logistic Support process and will influence the reliability of the system in the field. Maintenance engineering should be of help in accomplishing this goal.

Handbook of Systems Engineering and Risk Management in Control Systems, Communication, Space Technology, Missile, Security and Defense Operations Anna M. Doro-on,2022-09-27 This book provides multifaceted components and full practical perspectives of systems engineering and risk management in security and defense operations with a focus on infrastructure and manpower control systems, missile design, space technology, satellites, intercontinental ballistic missiles, and space security. While there are many existing selections of systems engineering and risk management textbooks, there is no existing work that connects systems engineering and risk management concepts to solidify its usability in the entire security and defense actions. With this book Dr. Anna M. Doro-on rectifies the current imbalance. She provides a comprehensive overview of systems engineering and risk management before moving to deeper practical engineering principles integrated with newly developed concepts and examples based on industry and government methodologies. The chapters also cover related points including design principles for defeating and deactivating improvised explosive devices and land mines and security measures against kinds of threats. The book is designed for systems engineers in practice, political risk professionals, managers, policy makers, engineers in other engineering fields, scientists, decision makers in industry and government and to serve as a reference work in systems engineering and risk management courses with focus on security and defense operations.
