SUSTAINABLE AND RESPONSIBLE TOURISM MANHAS, PARIKSHAT SINGH, 2012-03-10 Tourism is one of the most dynamic and challenging industries across the globe. Since tourism is a multi-dimensional service industry, it becomes a responsibility of national and local governments, private sectors and voluntary organizations to make it more sustainable and responsible for minimizing negative environmental, social and cultural impacts and generating greater economic benefits for local residents. Moreover, it has become an immediate need to conserve natural and cultural heritage for the maintenance of the world's diversity. The present anthology, divided into three sections and comprising 16 chapters, addresses the need of sustainable and responsible tourism. It provides vibrant insights into the latest trends and practices followed in the industry for the sustenance of tourism. The book emphasizes the potential of tourism in upgrading national economy and social well-being of host communities. Besides, it focuses on the areas of important concerns which require critical attention, such as visitor impact management, tourism destination management, community involvement for tourism sustenance and the threat of climatic change on biodiversity and tourist destination. The book also guides readers towards new horizons of tourism arena related to sustainability and responsible tourism practices. This book will be of great interest to the students of hospitality and tourism management. Besides, it will prove to be of great use to policy makers, stakeholders, tourism educators and researchers.

Proceedings of AWAM International Conference on Civil Engineering 2022 - Volume 3 Nuridah Sabtu, 2024-01-03 This book gathers the latest research, innovations, and applications in the field of civil engineering, as presented by leading national and international academics, researchers, engineers, and postgraduate students at the AWAM International Conference on Civil Engineering 2022 (AICCE'22), held in Penang, Malaysia on February 15-17, 2022. The book covers highly diverse topics in the main fields of civil engineering, including structural and earthquake engineering, environmental engineering, geotechnical engineering, highway and transportation engineering, water resources engineering, and geomatic and construction management. In line with the conference theme, "Sustainability And Resiliency: Re-Engineering the Future", which relates to the United Nations' 17 Global Goals for Sustainable Development, it highlights important elements in the planning and development stages to establish design standards beneficial to the environment and its surroundings. The contributions introduce numerous exciting ideas that spur novel research directions and foster multidisciplinary collaborations between various specialists in the field of civil engineering. This book is part of a 3-volume series of these conference proceedings, it represents Volume 3 in the series.

Penang Trams, Trolleybuses & Railways Ric Francis, Colin Ganley, 2006 Which city once had the smallest trolley-bus in the world? Where do you find the first funicular railway in Southeast Asia? How do you recognize a trolley-bus pole? Where is Tramway Road? With over 100 old photographs, maps and illustrations, this book gives an overview of the various forms of public transport used in George Town from 1880s to 1963, and the role this transport played in the development of the growth of George Town and Penang. Penang was one of the first urban centres in Southeast Asia to operate steam trams, horse trams, electric trams and trolleybuses. When the Municipal Commission established its own electric supply, it took over the tram service and started the electric trams in George Town in 1906. This gave the local population excellent public transport around George Town, with one line going up to Ayer Itam. In the late 1920s, the Municipality replaced trams with trolley-buses, experimenting for a while with re-conditioned double-deckers from London Transport! The Municipality also operated two railways - firstly, the Penang Hill Railway which was considered an engineering marvel when it was first built, and secondly, the electric railway which transported supplies and tin ingots for Penang's foremost smelting works.--BOOK JACKET.

Asia in the Twenty-first Century Paula K. Chow, Gregory C. Chow, 1997 Over 250 Princeton alumni and friends from 17 countries and from classes spanning a 66-year period attended the Conference. The presentations were of high quality, as can be seen from the proceedings. The speakers and other participants came from different national and cultural backgrounds and represented different points of view. For example, in discussing US-Asia relations James Baker represented an American viewpoint, while in the same session Yoshio Hatano represented a Japanese point of view, as did Toyoo Gyohten in a different session on economic issues. This valuable volume is a collection of frank and insightful essays on Asia-Pacific by notable Princetonians who are influential in the region.

Cities, Chaos & Creativity Kalinga Seneviratne,Sivananthi Thanenthiran,2004 Cities, Chaos and Creativity, jointly published by United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), Kuala Lumpur, and the Asian Media Information and Communication Centre (AMIC), is a useful handbook for communicators on good urban governance. It is also an invaluable resource guide to journalists in inspiring and guiding them through reporting on urban governance issues that advocate poverty alleviation and the need for more participatory governance. The book also covers the following topics: 1. Vision of what cities should be: socially just, ecologically sustainable, politically participatory, economically productive and culturally vibrant. 2. Introduction to the core principles of good urban governance: participation, transparency and accountability, equity, effectiveness and efficiency, responsiveness, strategic vision, consensus orientation. 3. How good urban governance is helping to transform the urban scenario. 4. The problems of the mainstream media, i.e. the rampant commercialization of the media and some strategies for journalists to overcome these.
