Christopher Hobhouse

The ^AFinest Building in America Edwin G. Burrows, 2018-01-10 The first book-length account of New York's Crystal Palace, which was built in 1853 and burned down in 1858.

New York Crystal Palace Georg Carstensen, 2018-03-21 Excerpt from New York Crystal Palace: Illustrated Description of the Building Our plan having met with the approbation of the Board of Directors, and those alterations having been carried out which the smallness of capital of the Company rendered unavoidable, our contract was signed on the 26th August, 1852, after which the mechanical departments were called into action. The contracts for the masonry were given out on the 4th of September, and on the 25th of the same month the iron work was contracted for. It was stipulated that the foundation should be ready, and the first necessary castings delivered, on the 21st of October. A pattern shop was established in this city, under the superintendence of messrs. Ch. 3. Shepard and John vrs, and the contracts for iron were distributed among various manufacturers, some in New York City and State; others in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Connecticut. This distribution of the iron contracts, owing to the failure in making arrangements for the whole supply from any one or two houses' in this city, was the occasion afterwards of much inconvenience and disappointment, as will be shown in the course of our statement. The first column of the Crystal Palace was erected with appropriate ceremonies on the 30th of October, 1852, and simultaneously with this first active step to the erection of the building, the delays and neglectfulness, afterwards the source of so much complaint, seemed to spring into existence, for even on the 24th of November nothing but that single column had been raised. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy. intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works.

The Crystal Palace in Hyde Park ,1851

The Crystal Palace Peter Berlyn, Charles Fowler (Jr.), Charles Fowler, 1851

1851 and the Crystal Palace Christopher Hobhouse, 1937

New York Crystal Palace Georg Carstensen, 2014-02 This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923. This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. that were either part of the original artifact, or were introduced by the scanning process. We believe this work is culturally important, and despite the imperfections, have elected to bring it back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide. We appreciate your understanding of the imperfections in the preservation process, and hope you enjoy this valuable book.

The Crystal Palace Patrick Beaver, 1986 The Crystal Palace was built in Hyde Park to house the treasures of the world for the Great Exhibition of 1851. It became a microcosm of Victorian life, industry and leisure, reflecting every aspect of its age. Designed by Joseph Paxton as a temporary structure its success meant that when it closed it was moved to Sydenham and rebuilt.

New York Crystal Palace Georg Carstensen, 2015-02-11 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important, and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. This work was reproduced from the original artifact, and remains as true to the original work as possible. Therefore, you will see the original copyright references, library stamps (as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world), and other notations in the work. This work is in the public domain in the United States of America, and possibly other nations. Within the United States, you may freely copy and distribute this work, as no entity (individual or corporate) has a copyright on the body of the work. As a reproduction of a historical artifact, this work may contain missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. Scholars believe, and we concur, that this work is important enough to be preserved, reproduced, and made generally available to the public. We appreciate your support of the preservation process, and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant.

Building ,1900

The Building Erected in Hyde Park for the Great Exhibition of the Works of Industry of All Nations, 1851 Charles Downes, Charles Cowper, 1852 This work is the only surviving source of information on the structure of Paxton's Crystal Palace. The technical account of the building by the engineer, Cowper, is accompanied by plans, elevations, and sections reduced by Downes, an architect, from the working drawings of Fox, Henderson, & Co., the contractors. They show details of connections, cross-bracing, iron lattice trusses, the timber arches, gallery floor construction, the 'Paxton gutter carrying the sash-bars, etc. It is a work of the greatest rarity--Elton Engineering Books, Catalogue 1 (1987).

Integrated Buildings Leonard R. Bachman, 2004-01-27 An anatomical study of building systems integration with guidelines for practical applications Through a systems approach to buildings, Integrated Buildings: The Systems Basis of Architecture details the practice of integration to bridge the gap between the design intentions and technical demands of building projects. Analytic methods are introduced that illustrate the value, benefit, and application of systems integration, as well as guidelines for selecting technical systems in the conceptual, schematic, and design development stages of projects. Landmark structures such as Eero Saarinen's John Deere Headquarters, Renzo Piano's Kansai International Airport, Glenn Murcutt's Magney House, and Richard Rogers's Lloyd's of London headquarters are presented as part of an extensive collection of case studies organized into seven categories: Laboratories Offices Pavilions Green Architecture High Tech Architecture Airport Terminals Residential Architecture Advanced material is provided on methods of integration, including an overview of integration topics, the systems basis of architecture, and the integration potential of various building systems. An expanded case study of Ibsen Nelsen's design for the Pacific Museum of Flight is used to demonstrate case study methods for tracing integration through any work of architecture. Visually enhanced with more than 300 illustrations, diagrams, and photographs, Integrated Buildings: The Systems Basis of Architecture is a valuable reference guide for architecture and civil engineering students, as well as architects, engineers, and other professionals in the construction industry.

Building World ,1902

Reasons why the Crystal Palace Should Not be a Permanent Building ,1851

A World History of Art Hugh Honour, John Fleming, 2005 Over two decades this art historical tour de force has consistently proved the classic introduction to humanity's artistic heritage. From our paleolithic past to our digitised present, every continent and culture is covered in an articulate and well-balanced discussion. In this Seventh Edition, the text has been revised to embrace developments in archaeology and art historical research, while the renowned contemporary art historian Michael Archer has greatly expanded the discussion of the past twenty years, providing a new perspective on the latest developments. The insight, elegance and fluency that the authors bring to their text are complemented by 1458 superb illustrations, half of which are now in colour. These images, together with the numerous maps and architectural plans, have been chosen to represent the most significant chronological, regional and individual styles of artistic expression.
