Dogeaters Jessica Hagedorn, 2015-04-10 Jessica Hagedorn has transformed her bestselling novel about the Philippines during the reign of Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos into an equally powerful theatrical piece that is a multi-layered tour de force. As Harold Bloom writes, Hagedorn expresses the conflicts experienced by Asian immigrants caught between cultures . . . she takes aim at racism in the U.S. and develops in her dramas the themes of displacement and the search for belonging. Jessica Hagedorn is a performance artist, poet, novelist and playwright, born and raised in the Philippines. Her novels include Dogeaters (Penguin 1990) which was nominated for a National Book Award and The Gangster of Love (Penguin 1996); a short story collection, Danger and Beauty (City Lights 2002).

The Archival Afterlives of Philippine Cinema Bliss Cua Lim, 2024-01-05 Drawing on cultural policy, queer and feminist theory, materialist media studies, and postcolonial historiography, Bliss Cua Lim analyzes the crisis-ridden history of Philippine film archiving—a history of lost films, limited access, and collapsed archives. Rather than denigrate underfunded Philippine audiovisual archives in contrast to institutions in the global North, The Archival Afterlives of Philippine Cinema shows how archival practices of making do can inspire alternative theoretical and historical approaches to cinema. Lim examines formal state and corporate archives, analyzing restorations of the last nitrate film and a star-studded lesbian classic as well as archiving under the Marcos dictatorship. She also foregrounds informal archival efforts: a cinephilic video store specializing in vintage Tagalog classics; a microcuratorial initiative for experimental films; and guerilla screenings for rural Visayan audiences. Throughout, Lim centers the improvisational creativity of audiovisual archivists, collectors, advocates, and amateurs who embrace imperfect access in the face of inhospitable conditions.

Philippine Studies Priscelina Patajo-Legasto, 2008 These essays by Philippine and U.S.-based scholars illustrate the dynamism and complexities of the discursive field of Philippine studies as a critique of vestiges of universalist (Western/hegemonic) paradigms; as an affirmation of traditional and emergent cultural practices; as a site for new readings of old texts and new popular forms brought into the ambit of serious scholarship; and as a liberative space for new art and literary genres.

A Convivial Landscape of Memory Maeviane D. Timbol, 2017 The Manila Film center is one of the historical edifices, located within the CCP Complex Pasay City. Built during the Marcos' regime to house the first International Film Festival in the Philippines. The building carries the grandiose notion of the film industry that is characterized by the golden ratio of architecture. Marking its tragedy on 1981 when the scaffolding during the construction phase fell and killed numerous of workers, which created a controversy of burying and leaving the bodies entombed in the structure. Followed by a magnitude of 7.7 earthquake hit the vicinity and the building's structural integrity was challenged and failed to comply its safety. Lastly on year 2013, the building was hit by a fire outburst leaving an amount of damages. With this series of events, the building sits abandoned and was categorize as haunted and created a stigma that leaves fear and a horrifying outlook of the building. With current masterplan of the CCP Complex, the film center was demolished and forgotten. Therefore, the research studies the different approaches on regaining back the ill-fated Film Center that was considered as one of the medium in our culture. By using the genius loci, which focuses on the spirit and essence of the place that will also commemorate the workers who had contributed on the edifice. Subordinated with the variation of implications of memorial and monumental architecture that will give birth to the center that was once forgotten.

Metro Manila Meliton B. Juanico,1983

Palingenetic Architecture Jeremy Dy Wang,2016 The Manila Film Center is a historical building that is located within the CCP compound, built during the martial law era, had tragic accident that happened during 1981 on its construction phase in which the scaffolding of the second floor fell down and killed numerous workers followed by the large earthquake that struck manila in the year 1990 and the fire outburst that affected partly of the structure in the year 2013, because of this series of events it is categorize as external stigmas in which it leaves fear among the current users and it greatly affects the structural integrity of Manila Film Center..The research proposes that defining social stigma and identifying the type of stigma that is injected on the Manila Film Center would generate the rebirth of a new Manila Film Center using the idea of Palingenesis which is defined as a continued existence in different manner or form. Giving a new life to the current state of the worn out Film Center and reversing the current stigma it holds.

Ang Daigdig Ng Mga Api Clodualdo Del Mundo (Jr.), Dik Trofeo, 2022 Del Mundo's latest book takes inspiration from National Artist Gerardo De Leon's important and now non-extant 1965 film Ang Daigdig ng mga Api, gathering the film's surviving materials including its original sequence treatment, anecdotes from the cast and crew, and on-set photographs on one of the national artist's best films. The film is now forever lost due to the unavailability of effective and efficient archiving facilities at the time. The film premiered at the first Manila Film Festival in 1966 where it garnered eight awards, including Best Picture and Best Director. The film starring Robert Arevalo and Barbara Perez was considered a poignant social commentary of its time, made with the known craftsmanship and cinematic style of its filmmaker. From its original posters, it tells of "the story of millions of Filipinos living in penury" and follows the stories of agricultural workers in the hands of their overseer and landlord.

The Film Anthologies Index Stephen E. Bowles, 1994-10 The Film Anthologies Index is a bibliographical resource essential to any person or institution interested in the study of film. No publication or database currently indexes the contents of these important anthologies. There are over 600 anthologies (by both multiple and single authors) in English that have been published through 1991. These anthologies contain over 10,000 stand-alone pieces that (1) reprint articles from their original source, (2) select excerpts from book-length publications, and (3) include original essays appearing only in a specialized anthology. Without The Film Anthologies Index, the researcher would have no guide to the valuable contents between the covers of these anthologies. Much more than just a guide to the contents of anthologies, the main section consists of 6,563 numbered entries that alphabetically list by author the contents of each piece found in the anthologies. (You could find, for example, all pieces written by a particular author which have appeared in the anthologies.) Additionally, every author entry refers the user to all the anthologized sources which contain each specific piece. (For example, Robert Warshow's landmark essay on Movie Chronicle: The Westerner can be found in 9 different anthologies or that selected essays by Sergei Einstein appear in over 50 separate anthologies.) Without The Film Anthologies Index there would be no way to systematically locate these buried treasures. The final section of The Film Anthologies Index consists of an extensive listing of all film titles, individual names, specific genres, countries, periods, studios, etc. as well as all key words and phrases that appear in the titles of the included pieces. There are approximately 7000 topics covered in this section. The user-friendly layout of this reference source makes it both a comprehensive resource for everyone from the casual movie-goer who wants a deeper understanding of the medium to the dedicated film scholar who is pursuing material on
