Alfred Adler

Looking for Learning: Provocations Laura England, 2019-09-05 Looking for Learning: Provocations is a full-colour, practical guide to inspire child-led learning that's linked to current policy and the EYFS framework. As each child progresses through their learning journey, Early Years practitioners are expected to identify and understand what learning is taking place in every activity that a child is involved in. Laura England, creator of Little Miss Early Years, uses her wealth of experience as an Early Years teacher to explore the learning that takes place when a child's play has been inspired by a provocation, including mirrors to investigate symmetry, cardboard boxes to understand shapes, and sticks and pebbles to construct their own designs. Provocations invite learning, interest and creativity as they allow children to explore, think and use their imaginations. This dip-in-and-out book is linked to the Characteristics of Effective Learning and presents case studies, real-life images and practical pointers to explore their use. With tips for setting up the environment to the adult's role in this child-led play, Looking for Learning: Provocations is ideal for all Early Years practitioners searching for accessible ideas for using provocations in their settings. Looking for Learning books are the number one tool for identifying learning opportunities in child-led play. All four books are packed full of tried-and-tested ideas for indoor and outdoor activities, helpful hints and tips and full-colour photographs. Written by Laura England, known as Little Miss Early Years, these are a must-have for any nursery or pre-school.

Provocations for Learning in Early Years Settings Margaret Longstaffe, 2020-04-21 Full of practical guidance and easy-to-implement strategies on how to provoke learning and creativity in early years settings, allowing children to freely explore their environment and develop their ability to critically think.

Perspectives and Provocations in Early Childhood Education Vivian Vasquez, 2012-11-01 Mandates to implement practices that are antithetical to what we embrace as supportive of young children's literacy learning are pervasive. Teachers of young children are asked to teach-to-the test in ways that take away opportunities for holistic, thoughtful, play-oriented practices that allow children to construct knowledge through contextualized and purposeful experiences. In 2009 the Early Childhood Assembly was formed by a group of early childhood educators to provide a home at the National Council for Teacher of English for all who work with young children. Perspectives and Provocations in Early Childhood Education is a publication of the ECEA. The publication is intended to support teachers of young children and those interested in studying about early literacy by putting on offer texts with a strong emphasis on promoting thoughtful practices that enhance the teaching and learning of young children within and across diverse communities. All royalties from the book go to the ECEA to help the organization advance its goals of providing scholarships for early childhood teachers to participate in conferences and professional development events.

Perspectives and Provocations in Early Childhood Education Volume 3 Carol Branigan Felderman, Brian Kissel, Kindel Nash, 2014-12-01 In classrooms where children's voices are valued, young readers and writers possess power. Their ability to exert this power through literacy is especially evident in classrooms where children, who are traditionally marginalized, can use their voices to be change agents. In this third volume of Perspectives and Provocations in Early Childhood Education, the authors' stories explore students' agentive power to change themselves, their teachers, school administrators, and the world.

Constructivism Across the Curriculum in Early Childhood Classrooms Christine Chaillé, 2008 Former President of NAECTE and co-author of The Young Child As Scientist, Christine Chaille brings a Reggio Emilia inspired, fresh, friendly and innovative introduction to constructivist curriculum for educators in preschool to primary classrooms. Designed to be a readable and user-friendly source for teachers who are looking for guidance and inspiration when incorporating constructivism and Reggio Emilia ideas into their classroom, the chapters in this book are organized into two categories: Introductory chapters and Big Idea chapters. Introductory chapters provide the broad, theoretical framework and an overview of constructivist practice and Reggio Emilia ideas. The Big Idea chapters present one of the seven Big ideas (light, balance, cause and effect, transformation, sound, zooming in and out, and upside down) as springboards to help teachers build an interdisciplinary, child-centered curriculum. Big Idea chapters also bring theory into practice by incorporating scenarios of real teachers implementing the projects discussed in their classrooms. By balancing theory and the realities of the classroom, this book helps teachers challenge themselves and their students with strategies for infusing new curriculum approaches in their classrooms without sacrificing what they need to accomplish in the process.

The Practice and Theory of Individual Psychology Alfred Adler, 1927

Teaching Young Children Glenda Mac Naughton, Gillian Williams, 2004 Teaching techniques that help both new and experienced teachers to communicate better with their children Teaching Young Children presents early childhood students and staff with a broad and diverse range of teaching techniques to support children's learning. It examines 26 techniques ranging from simple ones—such as describing and listening—to more complex techniques such as deconstruction and scaffolding. It defines each technique and discusses how, when, and why staff might use it. Vignettes and examples clarify how to use these techniques in everyday situations and outline different ways to reach children, support their learning, and help them with learning difficulties. A final chapter presents a strategic approach to selecting the appropriate techniques for specific teaching methods and situations. This chapter also goes one step further, explaining how educational theories link with different technique choices—giving both teaching students and experienced teachers a wide range of options and approaches, which is invaluable when teaching classes of children with varying abilities.

Eliciting Children's Full Potential Sylvia G. Feinburg,Mary Mindess,1994 Eliciting Children's Full Potential is an excellent resource for the recreation of high-quality programs for young children ages three to eight that helps readers to develop a deeper understanding of the cognitive-developmental model, including how it is like and unlike other child-centered models and how it links theory with classroom practice; design and implement programs from a cross-cultural, inclusionary perspective, providing intellectual challenge, stimulating creative thinking, and strengthening children's social cognition; and engage in continuous professional growth through a process of positive self- and peer evaluation. The book also contains classroom vignettes drawn from a wide range of environments; a system for classroom observation; and classroom evaluation instruments.

Provocations on Assessment in Early Childhood Education ,2012 The aim of this report is to demystify the notion of assessment and to help educators recognise it as an established practice in early childhood education. It begins with an explanation of what is meant by the term 'assessment' in early childhood education and explains why assessment has been included as a pedagogical principle in the Early Years Learning Framework. It outlines the difference between approaches to assessment and explains the difference between goals and outcomes. Following this, a three-step process for assessing children's learning is described, along with some suggestions for reporting on children's learning and some tips for getting started.
