Human Development Index Fouad Sabry,2024-01-13 What is Human Development Index Indicators of life expectancy, education, and per capita income are included in the Human Development measure (HDI), which is a statistical composite measure that is used to put nations into four different tiers of human development. It is possible for a nation to get a higher Human Development Index (HDI) score when the average lifespan, the level of education, and the gross national income (GNI) per capita are all greater respectively. It was initially devised by the Pakistani economist Mahbub ul-Haq, and it was then utilized by the Human Development Report Office of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in order to accurately quantify the level of development of a nation. Human Development Report 2005 United Nations Development Programme,2005 The Human Development Report 2005 examines the scale of the challenge facing the world at the start of the ten year countdown to the 2015 Millennium Development Goals mark. The Report focuses on three pillars of cooperation, each of which is in urgent need of renovation. The first pillar is international aid: the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) project has been compromised by chronic and sustained under-financing, allied to problems in aid quality. The second pillar is international trade. Under the right conditions, trade can act as a powerful catalyst for human development. The 'development round' of World Trade

Organization talks, launched in 2001, provided northern governments with an opportunity to create those conditions. The third pillar is that of security: violent conflict is a source of systematic human rights violation and a barrier to progress towards the MDGs that must be overcome.

Human Development Report 2004 United Nations Development Programme, 2004 This is the 15th report, prepared by a team of independent experts, which explores major development issues of global concern. The 2004 report focuses on issues of cultural liberty and concludes that countries must actively devise multicultural policies to prevent cultural discrimination (whether on grounds of religion, ethnicity or language), since the expansion of cultural freedoms is at the core of human development. Rather than presenting a threat to state unity, the report argues that diversity is the only sustainable option to promote stability and democracy within and across societies. Issues discussed include: confronting extremist movements for cultural domination; myths surrounding cultural liberty and development; the impact of globalisation on cultural choice; social exclusion, human rights and participation. It also includes data tables for the Human Development Index (HDI) which measures key social and economic indicators for rich and poor countries, including life-expectancy, health and sanitation, employment rights, gender equality, education and income per-person.
