Mitos cristianos en la poesía del 27 Rocío Ortuño Casanova, 2014-05-21 'Y el ángel del Señor anunció a María: puede pasar el primero'. Con estas palabras acaba el poema 'La muerte o antesala de consulta' de Vicente Aleixandre, mientras Luis Cernuda elogia a Lorca afirmando que 'la sal de nuestra tierra eras' en el poema 'A un poeta muerto. F. G. L.'. ¿Por qué una generación de escritores que nunca ha sido especialmente conocida por su poesía religiosa incluye referencias bíblicas en sus poemas? ¿Ocurre con todos los poetas de la generación? ¿De dónde procede esa tendencia? Este libro parte de estas y otras preguntas para realizar un recorrido por la poesía de los famosísimos miembros de la generación del veintisiete, y la de otros miembros no tan conocidos: mujeres que escribieron en la misma época que Lorca y Cernuda como son Martínez Sagi, Lucía Sánchez Saornil, Ernestina de Champourcin, Elisabeth Mulder o Pilar de Valderrama. El estudio examina la aparición de mitos bíblicos en poemas no religiosos, una estrategia literaria mediante la cual se busca definir la función del poeta en la convulsa sociedad española del primer tercio del siglo XX. Un interesante recorrido y una perspectiva sorprendentemente novedosa para una generación literaria que tanto sigue dando que hablar.

The Orion Center Bibliography of the Dead Sea Scrolls and Associated Literature (2000-2006) Ruth Clements, Nadav Sharon, 2007-12-31 The Orion Center Bibliography of the Dead Sea Scrolls and Associated Literature (2000-2006) is the fifth official Scrolls bibliography, following volumes covering the periods 1948-1957 (W. S. LaSor), 1958-1969 (B. Jongeling), 1970-1995 (F. García Martínez and D. W. Parry), and 1995-2000 (A. Pinnick). The interdisciplinary cast of the Bibliography reflects the current emphasis in Scrolls scholarship on integrating the knowledge gained from the Qumran corpus into the larger picture of Second Temple Judaism. The volume contains over 4100 entries, including approximately 850 reviews; source, subject, and language indices facilitate its use by scholars and students within and outside the field. This work is based on the On-Line Bibliography maintained by the Orion Center for the Study of the Dead Sea Scrolls, Jerusalem.

Ellas sí pueden Douglas Camarillo, 2021-07-23 ¿Crees que la mujer puede ejercer autoridad y ser usada por Dios en estos tiempos? En Genesis 1:28 Dios da la misma autoridad al hombre y a la mujer, ahí no discriminó al uno sobre el otro. La mujer hoy en día sigue siendo excluida por el legalismo. Un ejemplo de esto es lo expuesto por el pastor John MacArthur en la conferencia Truth Matters al criticarla como genera femenino y decirle a la pastora Beth Moore que se vaya a su casa ya que las mujeres no pueden enseñar, predicar, estar en autoridad sobre el hombre, ni ser pastoras, según 1 Timoteo 2:12. Toda mujer tiene derechos en el Reino de Dios, conocerlos va a cambiar su manera de vivir. Dios desea que todas las cosas sean restauradas y el ministerio de la mujer es una de ellas. Este libro te aclarará bíblicamente que Ellas Si Pueden enseñar, predicar, ser pastoras, y estar en autoridad sobre el hombre. Dios te ama y te creó con propósitos, vive la historia de tu vida basada en la verdadera intención por la que fuiste creada.

Poetry and Mind Laurent Dubreuil, 2018-04-03 What one cannot compute, one must poetize: this essay theorizes the extraordinary regimes of human mental experience by putting the emphasis on poetry. Poetry grants us the ability to move “beyond the limits of thought” and to explore the beyond of cognition. It teaches us to think differently. An elliptic response to Wittgenstein’s point of arrival in the Tractatus, this book is first and foremost an interdisciplinary study of poetry, drawing on literary theory, philosophy, and cognitive science. The work conducted on minds and brains over the last decades in psychology, artificial intelligence, or neuroscience cannot be ignored, if, as “humanists,” we are ever interested in the way we think. Thus, a constant dialogue with the positive examination of cognition serves to better situate the normal regimes of thought—and to underline the other mental possibilities that literature opens up. This essay shows that poetry—a very widespread and possibly universal phenomenon among humans—arises through syntactic structures, cognitive binding, and mental regulations; but that, in going through them, it also exceeds them. The best poems, then, are not only thought experiments but actual thinking experiments for the unthinkable. They expand the usual semantics of natural languages, they singularly deploy the rhetorical armature of speech. They tend to exceed their own algorithms, made of iterations and linguistic re-organizations. They are often reflexive, strange, cognitively dissonant. They provide detachable, movable, and livable significations to our selves. The literary scope of this book is more than “global:” it is uniquely broad and comparative, encompassing dozens of different traditions, oral or written, from all continents, from Ancient times to the contemporary era, with some thirty specific readings of texts, ranging from Sophocles to Gertrude Stein, from Wang Wei to Aimé Césaire, or from cuneiform tablet to rap music.

CLARIN in the Low Countries Jan Odijk, Arjan van Hessen, 2017-12-28 This book describes the results of activities undertaken to construct the CLARIN research infrastructure in the Low Countries, i.e., in the Netherlands and in Flanders (the Dutch-speaking part of Belgium). CLARIN is a European research infrastructure for humanities and social science researchers that work with natural language data. This book introduces the CLARIN infrastructure, describes various aspects of the technical implementation of the infrastructure, and introduces data, applications and software services created in the Low Countries for a wide variety of humanities disciplines. These enable researchers to accelerate their research activities and to base their conclusions on a much larger and richer empirical base than was possible before, thus providing a basis for carrying out groundbreaking research in which old questions can be investigated in new ways and new questions can be raised and investigated for the first time. Given CLARIN's focus on language data, linguistics and particularly syntax are prominently present. However, other humanities disciplines that work with natural language data such as history, literary studies, religion studies, media studies, political studies, and philosophy are represented as well. The book is a must read for humanities scholars and students who want to understand and use the potential that the Digital Humanities offer, as well as for computer scientists and developers of research infrastructures, in particular for researchers working on the CLARIN infrastructure in other countries.

A Lancastrian Mirror for Princes Rosemarie McGerr, 2011-11-15 This seminal study addresses one of the most beautifully decorated 15th-century copies of the New Statutes of England, uncovering how the manuscript's unique interweaving of legal, religious, and literary discourses frames the reader's perception of the work. Taking internal and external evidence into account, Rosemarie McGerr suggests that the manuscript was made for Prince Edward of Lancaster, transforming a legal reference work into a book of instruction in kingship, as well as a means of celebrating the Lancastrians' rightful claim to the English throne during the Wars of the Roses. A Lancastrian Mirror for Princes also explores the role played by the manuscript as a commentary on royal justice and grace for its later owners and offers modern readers a fascinating example of the long-lasting influence of medieval manuscripts on subsequent readers.

Entertaining Ambiguities Ralph J. Hexter, 2025-12-02 Entertaining Ambiguities explores the intersections of male-male sexual activities, subcultures, and coded language with classical reception, university culture, and Italian humanism. Through his excavation of a pair of Latin comedies—Janus the Priest and The False Hypocrite, written and performed by law students at the University of Pavia in 1427 and 1437, respectively—Ralph Hexter shows how these plays expand our understanding of the range of contemporary attitudes to male-male sexual behavior beyond previously studied registers, whether legal, ecclesiastical, or natural scientific. The plot of the two plays, one of which is an adaptation of the other, involves the entrapment of a priest who is eager for sexual activity with men. Digging deeply into precisely how the student ringleader of the entrapment plot persuades the priest to visit him in his rooms for an assignation, Hexter uncovers the coded language that the student uses to seemingly establish himself as a member of a network of like-minded men, convincing the priest to let his guard down. Hexter reads this coded language within his examination of the context of the plays' performance and circulation—including careful reading of a range of Italian and Latin sources, such as Boccaccio's Decameron, Apuleius's Golden Ass, comedies by Plautus and Terence, and Beccadelli's Hermaphroditus, among others. In doing so, he demonstrates how passages throughout both plays disrupt received ideas about the period's sexual conventions and sexual possibilities. Reading against the grain against orthodox expectations, Hexter reveals the plays' seemingly moralizing endings to be more suggestive and more ambiguous than they appear. Including an appendix presenting the first published English translations of both plays, Entertaining Ambiguities offers a new account of the history of sexuality, changing social mores, and intellectual exchange at the dawn of the Renaissance.

Mapping Paradise Alessandro Scafi, 2006 Alessandro Scafi's fascinating account looks at the perception of world geography and the place of paradise within that. Central to this discussion are the key debates, prevalent from the Renaissance, about faith and reason, theology and philosophy and paradise both as an internal and external reality.
