Animal Ethics and Animal Law Andrew Linzey, Clair Linzey, 2022-11-07 Animal law is a growing discipline, as is animal ethics. In this wide-ranging book, scholars from around the world address the intersections between the two. Specifically, this collection focuses on pressing moral issues and how law can protect animals from cruelty and abuse. A project of the Oxford Centre for Animal Ethics, the book is edited by the Oxford Centre's directors, Andrew Linzey and Clair Linzey, and features contributions from many of its fellows. Divided into three sections, the work explores historical perspectives and ethical-legal issues such as "personhood" and "property" before focusing on five practical case studies. The volume introduces readers to the interweaving between these subjects and should act as a spur to further interdisciplinary work.

Sport, Animals, and Society James Gillett, Michelle Gilbert, 2013-12-17 This book advances current literature on the role and place of animals in sport and society. It explores different forms of sporting spaces, examines how figures of animals have been used to racialize the human athlete, and encourages the reader to think critically about animal ethics, animals in space, time and place, and the human-animal relationship. The chapters highlight persistent dichotomies in the use of and collaboration with animals for sport, and present strategies for moving forward in the study of interspecies relations.

Prison Dog Programs Mary Renck Jalongo, 2019-09-03 This edited volume brings together a diverse group of contributors to create a review of research and an agenda for the future of dog care and training in correctional facilities. Bolstered by research that documents the potential benefits of HAI, many correctional facilities have implemented prison dog programs that involve inmates in the care and training of canines, not only as family dogs but also as service dogs for people with psychological and/or physical disabilities. Providing an evidence-based treatment of the topic, this book also draws upon the vast practical experience of individuals who have successfully begun, maintained, improved, and evaluated various types of dog programs with inmates; it includes first-person perspectives from all of the stakeholders in a prison dog program—the corrections staff, the recipients of the dogs, the inmate/trainers, and the community volunteers and sponsors. Human-animal interaction (HAI) is a burgeoning field of research that spans different disciplines: corrections, psychology, education, social work, animal welfare, and veterinary medicine, to name a few. Written for an array of professionals interested in prison dog programs, the book will hold special interest for researchers in criminal justice and corrections, forensic psychology, and to those with a commitment to promoting the ideals of rehabilitation, desistance thinking, restorative justice, and re-entry tools.

Santifort, Bruno André Lopes, Simone Spinillo, Andrea Tipold, Joao Miguel De Frias, Susana Monforte, 2025-06-26 Case reports in veterinary neurology hold significant potential for advancing the fields of veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. These reports may document unique and rare clinical cases, as well as offer insightful observations of more prevalent diseases. In all instances, they provide valuable insights into the diagnostic, therapeutic, and prognostic aspects of neurological disorders in animals. The detailed descriptions and originality found in case reports underscore their essential role in advancing medical science. The late Dr. Robert J. Higgins of UC Davis in California (USA) emphasized the significance of case reports, stating: Their importance in advancing knowledge becomes even more evident when we realize how much we still act as a catalyst for further research and clinical inquiry. They not only identify gaps in existing knowledge but also propose new hypotheses and occasionally challenge established paradigms. This, in turn, can stimulate more extensive studies and drive progress in veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. For example, a meticulously documented case report can unveil a new therapeutic approach or unexpected complication, triggering broader investigations that have the potential to enhance patient care significantly. The aim of this Research Topic is to establish a lasting and prominently featured platform for the publication of case reports in veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. By sharing unique clinical experiences and outcomes, veterinarians contribute to a collective database of knowledge that benefits the entire profession. This collaborative effort can contribute to advances in the field of veterinary neurology as a whole. The journal invites submissions of case reports that focus on veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. These reports should provide detailed accounts of clinical cases that contribute significantly to the field of veterinary medicine. The scope includes, but is not limited to: • Neurological disorders in various animal species, including domestic pets, horses, large animals, wildlife, and exotic animals. • Innovative diagnostic techniques and their applications in veterinary neurology cases. • Novel therapeutic approaches and outcomes in the management of neurological conditions. • Detailed descriptions of neurosurgical procedures and postoperative care. • Case reports highlighting unusual presentations of common neurological diseases. • Comparative neurology and its implications for veterinary practice. • New insights into neuropathology and neurodiagnostics. • Clinical challenges and solutions in veterinary neurology cases. Drs. Koen Santifort, Bruno A. Lopes, and Simone Spinillo are employed by private veterinary hospitals. All other Topic Editors declare no competing interests with regards to the Research Topic subject.
