The Art of Gordon Bennett Ian McLean, Gordon Bennett, 1996 The manifest toe - Painting a history of self in Postcolonial Australia: Gordon Bennett's existentialism - Gordon Bennett's critical aesthetic - Towards an Australian Postcolonial art.

Gordon Bennett Kelly Gellatly, Gordon Bennett, 2007 With his 'in-your-face' style and intellectual background, Gordon Bennett has become one of Australia's leading contemporary artists. He has garnered international critical acclaim for the complex ways in which his work engages with historical and contemporary issues of cultural and personal identity & with a focus on the interaction between Australia's indigenous, colonial, and postcolonial identities. This visually stimulating volume presents a thorough analysis of Bennett's practices and complex body of work to date, as well as a never before published intimate and revealing conversation between the artist and his long term associate Bill Wright

Gordon Bennett Gordon Bennett,

Australian Art Andrew Sayers, 2001 This comprehensive survey uniquely covers both Aboriginal art and that of European Australians, providing a revealing examination of the interaction between the two. Painting, bark art, photography, rock art, sculpture, and the decorative arts are all fully explored to present the rich texture of Australian art traditions. Well-known artists such as Margaret Preston, Rover Thomas, and Sidney Nolan are all discussed, as are the natural history illustrators, Aboriginal draughtsmen, and pastellists, whose work is only now being brought to light by new research. Taking the European colonization of the continent in 1788 as his starting point, Sayers highlights important issues concerning colonial art and women artists in this fascinating new story of Australian art.

Australian Artists in the Contemporary Museum Jennifer Barrett, Jacqueline Millner, 2016-12-05 This unique book proposes a re-reading of the relationship between artists and the contemporary museum. In Australia in particular, the museum has played a significant role in the colonial project and this has generally been considered as the predominant mode of artists' engagement with such institutions and collections. Australian Artists in the Contemporary Museum expands the post-colonial frame of reference used to interpret this work, to demonstrate the broader implications of the relationship between artists and the museum, and thus to offer an alternative way of understanding recent contemporary practices. The authors' central argument is that artists' engagement with the museum has shifted from politically motivated critique taking place in museums of fine art, towards interventions taking place in non-art museums that focus on the creation of knowledge more broadly. Such interventions assume a number of forms, including the artist acting as curator, art works that highlight the use of taxonomic modes of display and categorization, and the re-consideration of the aesthetics of collections to suggest different ways of interpreting objects and their history. Central to these interventions is the challenge to better connect the museum and its public. The book will be essential reading for scholars, professionals and students in the fields of contemporary art and museum studies, art history, and in the museum sector. These include artists, curators, museum and gallery professionals, postgraduate researchers, art historians, designers and design scholars, art and museum educators, and students of visual art, art history, and museum studies. This project has been assisted by the Australian government through the Australia Council for the Arts, its arts funding and advisory body.

65,000 Years: A Short History of Australian Art Marcia Langton, Judith Ryan, 2024-10-15 65,000 Years: A Short History of Australian Art stares into the dark heart of Australia's brutal colonial history and offers new insights into the first art of this country. Long before Britain's invasion of Australia in 1788, First Peoples' cultural and design traditions flourished for thousands of generations. Their art shaped the continent as we know it today and the societies that thrived here; but these continuing artistic practices and new art forms were disregarded by the settlers, and not considered to be 'fine art' until the late 1980s. In this publication, twenty-five writers urge us to reconsider the art history that is unique to the Australian continent and to acknowledge its rise to prominence in modern times. Featuring new writing by leading thinkers across generations and disciplines, it celebrates Indigenous Australian art across media, time and language groups. Today Indigenous art and artists are at the forefront of contemporary art practice. In very real and tangible ways, this publication reveals the artistic brilliance of Australia's First Peoples and stands as a testament to their resilience. This book is published in association with a major exhibition at the University of Melbourne's revitalised Potter Museum of Art, opening in 2025. Also titled 65,000 Years: A Short History of Australian Art, the exhibition, curated by Professor Marcia Langton AO, Ms Judith Ryan AM and Ms Shanysa McConville, features over 400 artworks that celebrate the longevity and brilliance of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander art despite a difficult history of colonialism and scientific racism.

Worlds Apart: Modernity Through the Prism of the Local Daniel Miller, 2003-12-16 Worlds Apart is concerned with one of the new futures of anthropology, namely the advances in technologies which create an imagination of new global and local forms. It also analyses studies of the consumption of these forms and attempts to go beyond the assumptions that consumption either localises or fails to effect global forms and images. Several of the chapters are written by anthropologists who have specialised in material culture studies and who examine the new forms, especially television and mass commodities, as well as some new uses of older forms, such as the body. The book also considers the ways in which people are increasingly not the primary creators of these images but have become secondary consumers.

Gordon Bennett Bob Lingard,1993 This Australian artist monograph surveys the current work of James Dodd. Published to coincide with the exhibition Sabotage at the Contemporary Art Centre of South Australia. Introduction by CACSA Curator, Logan Macdonald and essay by University of Queensland Art Gallery Curator, Samantha Littlely. A5 perfect bound 48 pages 17 colour plates.

Outsider/insider Georges Petitjean,Kitty Zijlmans,Ian McLean,2012 The force of Bennett's art is due to his ability to picture such urgent philosophical and historical questions of identity in a compelling personal way. Bennett's personal struggle with being an Australian of Aboriginal and Anglo-Celtic descent is crossed with the politics of the nation.

Australian Printmaking in the 1990s Sasha Grishin,1997 Closely examines the work of contemporary Australian printmakers, listed alphabetically - Includes Davida Allen - Rick Amor - Yvonne Boag.

The New McCulloch's Encyclopedia of Australian Art Alan McCulloch,Susan McCulloch,Emily McCulloch Childs,2006 Widely regarded as the authoritative reference on Australian art with its extensive colour plates and 4500 entries. Fully illustrated with more than 700 images on 1200 pages. Entries include: Aboriginal art, Abstractionism, art links, sculptors, photographers, craft workers and printmakers and much more.

Australian Art in the National Gallery of Australia National Gallery of Australia,Anne Gray,2002 Australian art in the National Gallery of Australia.

Transformations in Australian Art: The twentieth century - Modernism and aboriginality Terence Edwin Smith,2002 Examines the crucial role played by vision and colonisation of Australia and in the formation of a national consciousness. Artists transformed their depictions of land and its uses into landscape paintings which communicated the cultivation of the country as an unfolding of nature's own process.
