Medical microbiology, virology and immunology T. V. Andrianova,V. V. Bobyr,V. V. Danyleichenko,2019-01-01 The textbook was compiled in accordance with officially approved teaching programs for microbiology, virology and immunology in all faculties of higher medical schools. Questions of general microbiology (basic methods of studying microorganisms, morphology, structure and classification of bacteria, their physiology, the influence of physical, chemical and biological factors on microorganisms, microbial genetics and biotechnology, antimicrobials and the concept of infection) and special microbiology (morphology, physiology, pathogenic properties of pathogens of many infectious diseases, modern methods of their diagnostics, specific prevention and therapy). The textbook also contains sections on virology, protozoology, mycology and helminthology, which examine the basic biological properties of the causative agents and the diseases they cause. A significant part of the textbook is devoted to questions of immunology (nonspecific resistance of the organism, the doctrine of antigens, the immune system of the body, immune response, immunity reactions, allergy and other types of immune responses, immunodiagnostics and immunocorrection, immunoprophylaxis and immunotherapy). The textbook contains sections on clinical and sanitary microbiology, examines the ecology of microorganisms, the normal microbiota of the human body and the effect of microorganisms on the fetus. Separate sections are devoted to the microbiota of the oral cavity and microbiological research in stomatological and pharmaceutical fields. The textbook is intended for students of medical universities, relevant departments of higher education of doctors, interns and microbiologists of all specialties.

General and Clinical Pathophysiology Anatoliy V. Kubyshkin, The proposed textbook on pathophysiology for English studying students contains the information selected according to the pathological physiology program for the students of medical universities approved by the Ministry of Health of Ukraine. The manual is written to help students in their independent studies on pathophysiology and to understand the material on pathological processes development. The material provided in the textbook is adapted to the credit-module system of training and will help to increase knowledge of the mechanisms of typical pathological processes at the molecular, organ and systemic levels. There are new materials of national and foreign pathological physiology in the book. The textbook is recommended for training medical students of all medical university faculties. It can also be offered for use in preparing doctors, interns, aspirants, postgraduate students, and may be useful to physicians of all specialties at any stage of postgraduate education.

Analysis of war damage to Ukrainian science sector and its consequences UNESCO,2024-03-08 The conditions for conducting scientific and experimental work in Ukraine have significantly deteriorated since the Russian invasion of February 2022. As a result of the bombing of Ukrainian cities over the past two years, many scientists in the public sector have been forced to change both their city of residence and their place of work. By January 2024, 12% of Ukrainian scientists and university teachers had been forced to emigrate or relocate internally. About 30% of all Ukrainian scientists have been forced to work remotely. Another 1,518 scientists have volunteered for combat duty. The cost of restoring Ukraine's public research infrastructure has been estimated at US 1.2637 billion. This figure covers both scientific equipment (US 46 million) and buildings. Some 1,443 buildings belonging to 177 public scientific institutions have been damaged or destroyed since February 2022. Not all buildings can be assessed, however, as many are located in territories temporarily occupied by the Russian Federation. The war has also eroded state budgets allocated to scientific institutions. In parallel, the number of contracts concluded with domestic and foreign business partners has fallen sharply, further diminishing the income of scientific institutions. Opportunities for joint research and technical projects have been curbed by the migration of scientists. These factors have led to a drop in scientific productivity at both national and international levels. The present study has been commissioned from the Junior Academy of Sciences of Ukraine by UNESCO. The study is intended to inform UNESCO's strategy for supporting a recovery plan for Ukraine's science sector. --UN-iLibrary
