Clinical Research Methodology and Evidence - Based Medicine Ajit N Babu, 2014-01-01 Research methodology is a discipline concerned with the scientific conception, design, implementation and analysis of research. Evidence-based medicine (EBM) is an approach for evaluating and applying medical knowledge, particularly that derived from original research, in the care of individual patients. This book strives to give the reader a sound introduction to these related subjects which form a continuum. In this revised and expanded second edition, existing areas have been treated in greater depth, more examples provided and a number of fresh topics added. New chapters now address the finer points of survey design, provide tips on effective scientific writing for publication and outline the process of drug discovery from product conception to marketing. With these modifications, the book provides a more holistic picture of EBM and clinical research, appealing to a broader audience of medical students, practicing physicians, nursing staff, new investigators and researchers in CRO as well as the pharmaceutical industry.

Dieser Ratgeber zeigt Lösungswege auf: Wie findet man elektronische Quellen? Was ist zitierfähig und was nicht? Wie vermeidet man Plagiate? Wie soll eine bibliographische Angabe aussehen? Was tun, wenn in der Quelle Angaben fehlen? Für die dritte Auflage hat Lydia Prexl den Text erneut überarbeitet und dabei zahlreiche Leserfragen und -anregungen aufgegriffen.

Indigenous Research Knowledges and Their Place in the Academy Bindi Bennett, Kelly Menzel, 2025-07-24 This book privileges Indigenous ways of knowing, being and doing in research and serves as a voice in taking on some of the more marginal topics within methodologies. It is significant in that it is written by indigenous scholars themselves. The contributors shed light, for example, on Queer BlaQ bodies and place Indigenous women as central in reimagining fair academic practice; others return to their foundational texts to reflect on the growth of Indigenous Standpoint Theory. This book sees Indigenous Peoples as holding greater significance within research objectives and institutional practices and reimagines a research world embracing storytelling as foundational to academia. It is intended for students and early researchers, particularly Indigenous researchers, whilst also serving as an invaluable textbook for non-Indigenous people as it aids in explaining and outlining Indigenous research and is a valuable tool in the classroom and with research students. It demonstrates that Indigenous research approaches can sit beside and be equal to Western research, especially when engaging with the ethics process and for PhD students. This book is invaluable for non-Indigenous allies and researchers globally to further explain and outline Aboriginal (Australian) Indigenous research.

Academic Integrity Meets Artificial Intelligence Ruth Baker-Gardner, 2025-11-13 Academic Integrity Meets Artificial Intelligence examines academic integrity practices in higher education institutions (HEIs) in the Caribbean, assessing the current and potential impact of generative artificial intelligence tools on academic integrity and how HEIs globally have been responding.

The Indigenous Right of Reply to Archives The Indigenous Archives Collective, 2025-09-30 This book brings together leading Indigenous and allied thinkers, practitioners, and advocates to address the critical issue of the Right of Reply in archives — foregrounding truth-telling, cultural safety, and Indigenous sovereignty across GLAM institutions. Collecting institutions have shaped and maintained records produced by colonial systems of administration and continue to play a role in perpetuating colonial paradigms that are inherently resistant to the needs and priorities of Indigenous peoples. Against this backdrop, this book embarks on a scholarly investigation into the concept known as the 'Right of Reply.' This concept speaks to Indigenous peoples' right to update, correct, critique, or enhance Indigenous knowledge that is held in collecting institutions. Spanning creative responses, case studies, policy critiques, and international perspectives, the volume explores how the Right of Reply operates as a political and ethical imperative in the work of archives. Contributors examine Indigenous-led protocols, the impact of colonial recordkeeping, digital repatriation, metadata annotation, and structural transformation in Australia, Aotearoa, and the United States. The volume offers a blueprint for decolonising archives and centring Indigenous agency, illuminating the innovative strategies being implemented across institutional and community settings. It is essential reading for archivists, curators, scholars, and anyone committed to transforming GLAM practice.

Francis Bacon - In the Mirror of Photography Katharina Günther,2022-05-09 The British painter Francis Bacon (1909–1992) is famed for his idiosyncratic mode of depicting the human figure. Thirty years after his death, his working methods remain underexplored. New research on the Francis Bacon Studio Archive at Hugh Lane Gallery, Dublin, sheds light on the genesis of his works, namely the photographic source material he collected in his studios, on which he consistently based his paintings. The book brings together the artist's pictorial springboards for the first time, delineating and interpreting recurring patterns and methods in his preparatory work and adoption of photographic material. In addition, it correctly locates 'chance' as a driving force in Bacon's working method and qualifies the significance of photography for the painter.
