The New Rural Urban Definitions and Their Implications for the Urban Fringe Justin Martin,2007

The Methods and Materials of Demography Henry S. Shryock, Jacob S. Siegel, Elizabeth A. Larmon, 1971 Textbook on the research methods (incl. Data collecting and data processing) used in dealing with demographic statistical data - outlines methodology used in determining population size, distribution and composition (incl. In respect of age group, sex, marital status, education, etc.), and describes measures used in calculating population growth and decrease, mortality, birth rate, fertility, marriage and divorce, migration, population projections, etc. Bibliographies at the end of chapters, graphs, references and statistical tables.

The Methods and Materials of Demography Henry S. Shryock, 2013-10-22 Like the original two-volume work, this work attempts to present a systematic and comprehensive exposition, with illustrations, of the methods used by technicians and research workers in dealing with demographic data. The book is concerned with how data on population are gathered, classified, and treated to produce tabulations and various summarizing measures that reveal the significant aspects of the composition and dynamics of populations. It sets forth the sources, limitations, underlying definitions, and bases of classification, as well as the techniques and methods that have been developed for summarizing and analyzing the data.

Geography of Cities and Urban Systems Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2024-05-24 Analyzes the development of urban areas, city hierarchies, land use patterns, and urban planning with emphasis on spatial models and demographic trends.

Land Use Dynamics in a Developing Economy Shahab Fazal, 2012-10-11 Today, India still remains a rural agricultural country although the share of urban population has also increased but these figures do not tell the whole story. There are evidences that urban growth is dispersed and urban sprawl promotes the spread of urban land use into the rural-urban fringe. Here the attempt is to investigate the land transformation and the driving forces which were influencing the land transformation. The present study was done on peri urban interface of Aligarh city, a relatively small city, but as other north Indian cities, it is also expanding rapidly. Moreover, it too is surrounded by a populous rural area with productive and rich agricultural hinterland. Such conditions give rise to many conflicts and mutually beneficial complementarities in the rural and urban spheres. The result shows that the demand for land is high which results in informal urban development fulfilling the requirements of many of the city's residents. Every piece of land is a tradable commodity, and the pursuit of short-term profits is the predominant ethic. The actors in PUI are strong because it is characterized by intermixing of rural and urban activities and interests as well as the number of actors are greater than in any other area. .

Problems in Rural-urban Fringe Research Samuel W. Blizzard,1952

Urbanization and Urban Systems in India R. Ramachandran,1989 This substantive and original contribution to the study of urbanization in India critically analyzes the strengths and weaknesses of the Indian urban system and provides new insights into contemporary urban problems. Relating the geographical dimension with historical and socioeconomic aspects, the author focuses on the processes of urbanization and the nature of the interdependence among urban centers and between urban centers and their outlying areas.
