Every Night and Every Morn Gregory Bennett Rike,2004 Abstract: This document introduces Every Night and Every Morn, a song cycle by American composer Jeffrey Wood, from the poetry of William Blake. Emphasis is given to the poetic and theoretical analysis of the cycle and provides performance perspectives from two pianists and two vocalists. The first chapter contains biographical information about Jeffrey Wood the man and his music. The second chapter is a brief historical background of William Blake and a poetical analysis of his poem, Auguries of Innocence. The third chapter includes a critical commentary and theoretical analysis of Every Night and Every Morn. The fourth and fifth chapters present performance perspectives from two pianists and two vocalists. This study should help prepare any artist for a performance of this work. It provides insight into not only the music, but also the text, and how the composer has intertwined the two. The theoretical analysis elucidates the creative process of the composer. An addendum contains a complete list of Wood's oeuvre, which includes an opera, choral works, orchestral works, instrumental works, and liturgical music.
