Gathering a House of Prayer Brother Eric,2018-05-14 The question, 'How then shall we pray?', came as a sudden challenge, like a bolt from the sky, after attending a prayer meeting in 2013 where I was surprised by the methodology the pastor was following. This followed shortly after receiving a Christian-Hebrew Roots prayer letter that shocked with the ignorant mixing of the Gospel with mystic and occult practices. It showed the vulnerability of believers falling into an eclectic spirituality, each galloping into the battle as they please, to echo the words of Jeremiah: I listened and heard, but they did not speak right... everyone turns to his course, as a horse that rushes headlong in the battle... (Jeremiah 8:6). I started with the intention of writing a letter to the pastor to re-examine both old assumptions and new habits of the faith, being very aware not to judge and condemn brethren (Luke 6:35-37), but to strengthen the lame (Hebrews 12:12). That letter evolved into a book titled 'How then shall we pray?' in 2015; now revised as this series. It reflects a huge challenge regarding personal prayer and duty to God (Acts 23:1); combined with the quest to explain the Messianic hope of Israel (Acts 26:6-8), in light of the law of Life and Grace (Ephesians 1:7). Daily we see reports of miracle healing where bold prayers are made by ordinary believers with great faith, but we also see perversion appear among the Matthew 7:22-types, who do miracles in the Name of Jesus, but promote a liberty absent of sanctification. I'm perplexed to see how few care to question both old assumptions and liberal pop-theology that a little Google-research could show to be doubtful. Many millions are simply following religious traditions and so miss God's purpose for themselves (Luke 7:30). It motivates me to speak out against those who muddy the water (Ezekiel 34:17-19, NIV.); for God-fearing reverence and faith among believers; for the challenge is not to lose our first Love (Revelation 2:2-4), but to grow in truth and Spirit (John 4:24).
