Your Guide to the 2017 Total Solar Eclipse Michael E. Bakich,2016-06-01 In this book Astronomy Magazine editor Michael Bakich presents all the information you'll need to be ready for the total solar eclipse that will cross the United States on August 21, 2017. In this one resource you'll find out where the eclipse will occur, how to observe it safely, what you'll experience during the eclipse, the best equipment to choose, how to photograph the event, detailed weather forecasts for locations where the Moon's shadow will fall, and much more. Written in easy-to-understand language (and with a glossary for those few terms you may not be familiar with), this is the must-have reference for this unique occurrence. It's not a stretch to say that this eclipse will prove to be the most viewed sky event in history. That's why even now, more than a year before the eclipse, astronomy clubs, government agencies, cities — even whole states — are preparing for the unprecedented onslaught of visitors whose only desire is to experience darkness at midday. Bakich informs observers what anyone will need to observe, enjoy, and understand this event.

Night Vision for Airmen United States. Office of the Chief of Naval Operations, 1944 You wouldn't be in naval aviation if you didn't have good eyes. But having good eyes and seeing well are as different as having a fine gun and shooting well. This is doubly true at night. Most people do not know the facts about night seeing. Many people don't even know that there is anything to learn about it. But from the moment you climb into a plane until the moment you climb out of it you depend on seeing. The more you see and the faster you see it, the healthier the climate whether you are over the North Atlantic, the Central Pacific, Tokyo-or your home field or carrier. The enemy is already learning the tricks of night seeing. To keep ahead of the enemy we must use all there is to know on the subject. You will never see as well at night as a tomcat, but you can learn to do a better job of seeing at night. Aside from the obvious fact that you can't see as much in darkness as in daylight, there are three reasons why it takes thought and training and practice to get the most out of your night eyes. 1. Your mind and your eyes are a team. To see well, you must concentrate on seeing and put effort into it. If you don't, you don't see. 2. Your eyes are so built that you have to learn to use them in a different way at night. 3. Your eyes tell you so little and familiar things look so different at night that it takes practice to recognize the things your eyes see.
