Psychosocial Conceptual Practice Models in Occupational Therapy Moses N. Ikiugu, Elizabeth A. Ciaravino, 2007-01-01

This book examines the occupational therapy paradigm (its focal viewpoint, core constructs, and values) as well as the role of complexity/chaos theory as a scientific framework for occupational therapy research and practice. Unlike other current OT texts, this book uses clinical case examples to illustrate application of proposed changes to make procedures consistent with the latest Occupational Therapy Practice Framework. The reader walks away with a clear grasp of the theoretical principles guiding his or her treatment interventions, the explanations behind those principles, and the applicable intervention for said techniques and procedures. An emphasis on clinical-reasoning skills, including information on different types of reasoning skills as well as the MAPP model of teaching helps the student and clinician translate theoretical principles into practice. The section on specific interventions addresses each of the conceptual practice models according to a consistent chapter template, which enables the reader to apply conceptual practice models in real-world contexts. Preview questions at the beginning of each chapter alert the reader to important concepts in the upcoming text. Critical analysis of the theoretical core provides suggested modifications to increase consistency with the new occupational therapy paradigm.

The Practice of Psychosocial Occupational Therapy Linda Finlay, 2004 Using an evidence-based approach, this edition outlines the theory and practice of occupational therapy, with firm emphasis throughout on the need for clear aims of treatment within a sound theoretical framework. It is still essential reading for students and lecturers in occupational therapy at all levels.

Human Occupation. Introduction to the Theory and Practice of Occupational Therapy Linda Mathews, 2011-11 Essay from the year 2008 in the subject English - Miscellaneous, grade: 60%, South Bank University London (London South Bank University, UK), 23 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: The definition of the concept of quality of life (QOL) has long been debated with contributions varying according to the different scientific disciplines, including social sciences, psychology, geography, philosophy, health economics, advertising, medical science, and history (Bowling 1995; Faruqhar 1995, Liddle & McKenna 2000). Taking into account the difficulty of defining QOL (Bowling 1995) this essay will critically discuss the suggestion that ...the experience of quality of life is not dependent upon the quantifiable, material conditions of life but upon subjective, qualitative factors: the content of life (Hammell 2004, p299). Beginning with a brief definition of the concept QOL in relation to the concept of human occupation and the philosophy of occupational therapy (OT), it will be discussed whether quantifiable conditions in terms of socio-economic resources and measurable physical function are appropriate indicators for QOL. The discussion will then move towards the question of a suitable approach to QOL measurement and explain the implications for the role of OT. In an attempt to define the concept of QOL, Zhan (1992) proposes an example of a conceptual model which speaks of four measurable dimensions of QOL, namely: life satisfaction, self-concept, health and functioning and socio-economic factors (Zhan 1992, p796), and suggests, in consensus with Liddle & McKenna (2000), that QOL is both, a subjective as well as an objective concept. Niemi et al (1988) prefer to define QOL as referring to a person's subjective wellbeing and life satisfaction, which includes health, material well-being, interpersonal relationships, as well as personal development, work and recreation (Niemi et al, cited in Mayers 2000, p591).

Occupational Composition of Canadian Migration Leroy O. Stone, Susan Fletcher, Frances Aubry, 1979

Perspectives on Theory for the Practice of Occupational Therapy Kay F. Walker, Ferol Menks Ludwig, 2004 An updated edition of Perspectives on Theory for the Practice of Occupational Therapy, this current edition provides a thorough review of selected theorists whose lives and works have influenced the direction and development of clinical practice in occupational therapy.

The American Journal of Occupational Therapy, 1996

Measuring Occupational Performance Mary C. Law, Carolyn Manville Baum, Winnie Dunn, 2001 Gives background on measurement concepts and issues, and explores the central theoretical concept of occupational therapy, occupation, and occupational performance outcomes. Outlines key actions that occupational therapists must implement when conducting assessments, reporting findings, and interpreting measurement information for intervention planning. Measurement issues and practices are discussed, and a framework is provided to guide the choice of assessment tools. Measurement in the context of a client-centered approach is a central theme. Law is affiliated with McMaster University. Annotation copyrighted by Book News, Inc., Portland, OR

Occupational Therapy Without Borders Frank Kronenberg, Salvador Simó Algado, Nick Pollard, 2005 This book challenges occupational therapists to more fully realise the profession's social vision of a more just society where disability, old age and other marginalising conditions and experiences are addressed. The book explores the new idea of occupational apartheid.

A Model of Human Occupation Gary Kielhofner, 1995 Presenting the new edition of the text that delivers the most widely-used and developed conceptual model in occupational therapy. Beautifully redesigned and fully revised, the Third Edition of A Model of Human Occupation (MOHO) delivers the latest in human occupation research and application to practice. New to this edition: a reader-friendly format with second color and additional illustrations and anecdotes; more case examples for integrating the model into practice; a discussion of the therapy process and how change occurs; language linked to UT and ICDH-2 terminology; a research chapter; and numerous research references highlighting the growing body of evidence supporting MOHO.

Psychosocial Occupational Therapy Franklin Stein, Susan K. Cutler, 1998 This text defines occupational therapy as an applied science and rehabilitation profession concerned with enabling individuals with disabilities to reach their maximum potential in performing daily functions. The authors, both experts in the field, bring together a holistic approach by using historical references, current occupational therapy practice, and research evidence. They discuss and evaluate clearly the traditional and alternative treatment techniques and emphasize occupational therapy's link to its historical roots, as well as the emerging trends in community mental health.--BOOK JACKET.
