Social Work Patricia Higham, 2006-02-14 'Comprehensive and user-friendly. The book is helpfully constructed around a number of key themes, starting with a good attempt to define social work from historical and international perspectives and moving on to address key issues concerning the practice, knowledge, values and skills required from contemporary social work in the UK. I believe social work students, newly qualified and experienced social workers will find this a valuable resource, especially when one is confronted by challenges in practice' - Professional Social Work 'Social Work is a good overview that should refresh learner and tutor alike. Practice assessors may find this book a useful update for their work with students and also a neat refresher. It is a well-written and up-to-date text, with a good sense of where future challenges lie for the social work profession in the UK. Higham is confident enough to voice the profession's uncertainties as well as mapping the changing organisational landscape that social workers might populate. [This book] is likely to appear on many social work reading lists. [It has] the potential to provide good learning opportunities for post-qualifying as well as pre-qualifying training' - Health and Social Care in the Community 'The unique aspect of this book which distinguishes it from other competitors is that it is constructed explicitly around the key roles and benchmark statements... this book will offer something new and interesting to the growing field of social work education literature and is likely to be relevant to both students and practitioners in the UK and elsewhere' - Dr Caroline Skehill, Queens University Belfast

What is the role of social work? What does it mean to be a social worker? What are the changes affecting social work training? Social Work: Introducing Professional Practice addresses these questions and provides an understanding of the knowledge, values, and skills requirements of professional social work. The author has played a key role in constructing the subject benchmarks for the social work degree and offers a reflective and thoughtful commentary upon training, education and practice. Written in a lively and readable style, the book captures the essence of the changes sweeping through social work and engages the reader in these debates. Key features of this book include: - Comprehensive content structured around the guidelines for training and practice - Bridges the gap between theory and real-life practice - Student-friendly features such as case-studies, discussion questions, further reading and a glossary This exciting publication will be a core textbook for trainee social workers as they progress through the qualifying social work degree, or as they begin their practice as newly qualified workers seeking to consolidate their learning.

Rural Non-farm Growth M. Prasada Rao, 2006 This Book Seeks To Test Distress Diversification Against Growth Linkages To Explain The Propensity Of Rural People To Be Involved In Rural Non-Farm Employment As A Primary Income Source. This Is Done Through (A) District Level And (B) Household Level Regressions Of The Total Proportion Of Rural Non-Farm Employment (Rnfe) And Rnfe Share By Sub-Sectors In Andhra Pradesh (Ap), India. Ap Has India S Highest, And Rising, Age/Gender-Specific And Overall Work-Force Participation Rates, Especially Female And Child. These Rates Coexist With A Rising Percentage Of Rural Workers In Agriculture (In Contrast To All-India) And With A Smaller Share Of Rnfe In The Rural Workforce Relative To All-India. These Facts Appear To Be Linked To Ap S Unemployment (Higher, Rising Faster, Than Elsewhere). The Central Hypothesis Is: There Are Two Sorts Of Rnfe, Traditional And Modern. A High Traditional Rnfe Share (And Its Growth) Is Associated With Distress Diversification. A High Modern Rnfe Share (And Its Growth) Is Associated With Rural Growth Linkages From Agriculture . Using District Level Data, The Analysis Reveals That Variations In Irrigation, Farm Size, Literacy, Urbanisation, Commercialisation, Infrastructure And Poverty Are Significantly Associated With Variations In Rnfe. Household Level Primary Data Collected For 2 Villages In 1993-94, Also Reveals That A Range Of Demographic And Economic Variables Are Associated With Inter-Household Variations In Rnfe, Some Of Which Coincide With Those Identified In The Inter-District Analysis. They Include: Farm Size, Education, Farm Output, Caste, Migration In, Seasonality, Skills, Poverty, Household Head S Age, And Family Size. Case Studies Of Individual Households Reveal That Rnfe Often Faces Financial Problems For Working Capital, Insufficient Earnings, And Inability To Cope With Technological Changes. The Data Analysis Supports The Hypothesis That Growth Linkages Are The Main Explanation For High Shares In, And The Growth Of, Modern Rnfe, And Distress Diversification For Traditional Rnfe. It Also Demonstrates A Strong, Significant Association Between Traditional Rnfe And Low Literacy And Modern Rnfe And High Literacy. Government Self-Employment Schemes As Well As The Development Of Agricultural Infrastructure, E.G. Irrigation, And Improvements In Rural Educational Standards Are Therefore Policies Likely To Accelerate The Growth Of Rnfe Shares.

Bangladesh at Fifty Mustafa K. Mujeri, Neaz Mujeri, 2020-11-07 This book explores the diverse experience of Bangladesh's development over the last fifty years and provides systematic explanations of its success in socioeconomic development. It also assesses future trends on the basis of past experiences. It is widely acknowledged that Bangladesh provides one of the most striking examples in the study of present day development along with rapid growth and catching up. The analysis highlights the development traps that Bangladesh faced during its journey and the ones that may have to be faced in the coming decades in order to move towards prosperity. The book asserts that explaining Bangladesh's development is not for the simpleminded; any single mono-causal explanation for Bangladesh's development is bound to fall down in the face of reality. This book will be of interest to academics, students, policy makers and development practitioners especially in developing countries—in particular in South Asia and Bangladesh.
