The Busy Writer's One-Hour Character M. R. McAlister, 2012-07-12 Characters are the heart of your book. No matter how good your plot is, if you don't fill the pages with vibrant, interesting characters, your book won't reach its potential—and you won't win hordes of raving fans. What every writer needs is a fast-track way of creating characters that let you hit the ground running, but leaves plenty of room for growth as you write. The One-Hour Character system shows you how to come up with the Lead Character, other main characters, and a solid supporting cast in just sixty minutes. Team it with the One-Hour Plot, and you'll have a plot and characters sorted out in less than the time it takes you to go out to dinner! # You'll learn of six different sources for characters, and how to best use those sources—as well as a few others. # You'll learn about the different character types that you'll need: the Lead, the Antagonist, other main characters, a romantic interest (if applicable), sidekicks, confidants and walk-ons. # Step by step, you'll be walked through the process of creating characters – but with a time limit, so you know that at the end of an hour, you will be ready to start directing your new cast! You also learn how to tweak your characters. You'll find out: # how to give your characters a distinctive voice (tips on dialogue) # how to develop series characters (leaving room for a secret or two) # how to ensure that your characters suit your chosen genre # tips on naming your characters # tips on character growth and development # the importance of giving your characters goals Just one hour—that's all it will take. In the beginning, you'll have a few ideas and a blank sheet of paper. In the end, you'll have a cast of characters, eagerly awaiting their debut!

Stylistic Analysis of James Joyces 'Eveline' Anne-Mareike Franz, 2009-06 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Linguistics, grade: 1,7, University of Trier (Anglistik), course: Literary Linguistics, language: English, abstract: In 1903 James Joyce wrote the novel Dubliners, which consists of short stories about selected Irish people portraying their lives in Dublin. Eveline is one of the short stories of adolescence in this collection, as it deals with a young nineteen year old woman named Eveline, who is confronted with the decision on whether she should leave Dublin with her boyfriend Frank and start a new life in Buenos Aires or stay in her old habits. The story is written from a third-person limited point of view and because of this the reader is able to perceive Eveline's world through her perspective. The reader witnesses how Eveline tries to discover herself and her own wishes. But her way of initiation is meant to lead to an surprising conclusion by Eveline in the end. What is so fascinating about Eveline is not only the plot itself, but the way Joyce illustrates the situation of Eveline linguistically through his way of writing. Through various linguistic means Joyce pictures Eveline's fear of taking a chance, fear of the unknown and of change.

This innovative study offers age-appropriate book suggestions with related questions and activities tailored to a variety of thinking skills, including verbal or linguistic thinking, divergent and creative thinking, analytical and mathematical thinking, visual or spatial thinking, and many others. The program presented in this volume was successfully developed and implemented in the preschool/kindergarten laboratory school of Lindenwood University in St. Charles, Missouri, with 90 percent of the participating children selected for gifted programs in both public and private schools. Ideal for children's librarians, school librarians, teachers of early childhood gifted programs, parents, and homeschoolers, this study provides the tools for making any story hour a brain power story hour.
