Live Animals Regulations International Air Transport Association, 2006-10 This is the 33rd edition of the IATA Live Animals Regulations, which take effect from 1 October 2006. The IATA Live Animals Regulations (LAR) demonstrate how to transport animals safely so they arrive in good health. It specifies the minimum requirements for the international transport of animals and wildlife, and indicates what precautions airlines, shippers, cargo agents and animal care professionals should take on the ground and in the air. Enforced by the European Union and many other countries for the import and export of live animals, the LAR generally exceeds the intent of the US Animal Welfare Act (AWA). The Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) has adopted these regulations as their official guidelines for animal transportation and the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE) has recommended these regulations for the air transport of live animals. They are applicable to IATA members and to airlines that are parties to the IATA Multilateral Interline Traffic Agreement for Cargo. All persons who ship, accept or load animals must be familiar with the specific handling requirements for individual species to ensure that animals travel in safe, healthy and humane conditions.
