

The Swallows Of Lunetto

Joseph Fasano

The Swallows of Lunetto Joseph Fasano, 2022-11-25 From Joseph Fasano, the acclaimed author of 'The Dark Heart of Every Wild Thing', comes 'The Swallows of Lunetto', the powerful story of a young couple's escape from Italian fascism at the end of the Second World War. A novel that illuminates the workings of political extremism on vulnerable populations, 'The Swallows of Lunetto' helps us understand the political dangers of our own time. Alexandra Bianchi lives and works in Lunetto, a provincial village in Italy's Calabria region, which finds itself ravaged by war in the summer of 1945. Leonardo Gemetti, a young man from Lunetto, has been missing for nearly eight years, and all his village knows of him is that he has carried out an atrocity against the Italian partisans in Mussolini's fallen Republic of Salò. When Alexandra meets a masked figure in the streets of Lunetto, she cannot imagine what she will learn about history and her place in it. A sweeping love story and historical drama, 'The Swallows of Lunetto' is a timely meditation on the left-right political divide, the reckonings of inherited trauma, and the potential of forgiveness to heal deeply divisive wounds.

The swailing Patrick James Errington, 2023-03-15 Here the long edge / of town Low / winter fog / ... My breath / my offering We are / our bodies burning Firmly rooted in fire-haunted landscapes that are at once psychological, emotional, and fiercely real, Patrick Errington's first collection traces the brittle boundaries between presence and absence, keeping and killing, cruelty and tenderness. In these poems human voices whisper through the natural world - a hand turns on a lamp to extinguish the stars; stones outline a sleeping form; a black eye is a storm cloud. Errington stokes vivid images, formal grace, and subtle humour into the flickers of life that hold fast against unforgiving terrain. Here language functions like a controlled burn, one that could at any moment preserve, perfect, or reduce to ash. Urgent, resonant to the bone, the swailing burns to the ember-edge of grief, memory, and control to find the wildness, wilderness, and wonder that remain.

The Teacher Joseph Fasano,2025-12 From Joseph Fasano, bestselling author of The Magic Words, comes a timeless story of a father, a son, and the power of language to awaken the world. The Teacher follows Aldo, a craftsman, and his twelve-year-old son, Solé, as they journey across deserts, mountains, and wondrous cities toward the besieged city of Asha. Along the way, Aldo shares his Six Great Lessons: Love, Grief, Power, Mistakes, Hope, and Courage. These lessons become a guide for Solé as he learns what it means to live with compassion in a world shaped by fear. What begins as a journey to deliver a gift becomes something far more profound. Solé comes to understand that language, not violence, holds the greatest power of all. Part fable and part meditation, The Teacher stands alongside The Alchemist, Invisible Cities, and Einstein's Dreams. Written in Fasano's spare and luminous prose, it is a book to keep close, to give as a gift, and to return to again and again. The Teacher is a work for this moment and for all time. It reminds us that even in the face of darkness, we still have the power to speak.

The Last Song of the World Joseph Fasano,2024-11-05 Joseph Fasano's The Last Song of the World delves into the chaos of the modern world, and searches for resilience in the face of environmental and societal devastation. Dripping with images of ancient ruins and mythological figures, these poems serve as vignettes of fatherhood, love, and desire against the backdrop of apocalyptic events. Through the documentation of ongoing violence and natural phenomena, Fasano depicts the ever-present anxieties of parenting with concision and compassion. The Last Song of the World is a love letter to the world that could be, a world as tender as it is bold, as loving as it is brutal, as beautiful as it is horrendous.

How does it go on, said Gotthold: -- Back the swallows dart, back the swallows dart, And the chests again run o'er; [...].
