Routledge Handbook of Theory in Sport Management George B. Cunningham, Janet S. Fink, Alison Doherty, 2015-10-16

Theory is an essential element in the development of any academic discipline and sport management is no exception. This is the first book to trace the intellectual contours of theory in sport management, and to explain, critique and celebrate the importance of sport management theory in academic research, teaching and learning, and in the development of professional practice. Written by a world-class team of international sport management scholars, each of whom has taken a leading role in developing a particular theory or framework for understanding sport management, the book covers the full span of contemporary issues, debates, themes and functional approaches, from corporate social responsibility and diversity to strategy, marketing and finance. Every chapter explores a key theoretical approach, including an overview of that theory, a discussion of the process of theory development and of how the theory has been employed in research, practice or teaching, and outlines directions for future research in that area. Each chapter includes cases and examples, as well as short illustrative commentaries from people who have used that particular theory in their work, and attempts to highlight the theory-practice links, or gaps, in that area. For a fully-rounded understanding of what sport management is and how it should be studied, taught and practiced, a thorough grounding in theory is essential. The Routledge Handbook of Theory in Sport Management is therefore important reading for all advanced students, researchers, instructors, managers and practitioners working in this exciting field.

Strategic Brand Management In and Through Sport Argyro Elisavet Manoli, 2025-02-12 This book explores how sport brands can be managed strategically, as well as how non sport brands can be managed strategically through their association with sport. Despite decades of extensive research, brand management remains a priority for academics and practitioners alike. To this day, ample new and insightful research are being conducted on the matter, with questions around how a brand can be managed strategically still emerging. As the knowledge on the issue deepens, so does our interest in fully comprehending the fascinating and ever-developing strategic brand management, bearing in mind the ever-shifting environment in which brands operate. A particularly interesting topic within the wider brand management literature is brand management both in and through sport. The study of how sport brands can be managed strategically, as well as how non-sport brands can be managed strategically through their association with sport remains an interesting and unique field, offering valuable insights due to sport's natural marketing advantage caused by people's increased interest in sport and its socio-cultural importance in our lives. This book explores strategic brand management both in and through sport, thus helping in deepening our understanding of this promising field, while offering directions for future research in the area. The chapters in this book were originally published in Journal of Strategic Marketing.

Value co-creation in sport management Herbert Woratschek, Chris Horbel, Bastian Popp, 2017-10-02 This book offers new insights into value co-creation in the context of sport management. Based on recent developments in academia (e.g. service-dominant logic) and empirical evidence, it highlights the significance of customers and other firms and organisations (service networks) for the creation of high quality products and services. Five articles shed more light on various aspects of value co-creation including a sport value framework, customer-to-customer value co-creation platforms, fan consumption communities, value co-destruction, and coopetition strategies. They also broaden our understanding of the processes that lead to joint value creation by different parties. In addition, the authors present insights that can be helpful in practice, and describe guidelines and strategies that are in line with the concept of value co-creation. In so doing, this book helps to develop better theories, and to provide guidance for sport managers for the design of value creation as a collaborative relational and dynamic process between multiple actors. This book was published as a special issue of European Sport Management Quarterly.

When Sport Meets Business Ulrik Wagner, Rasmus K. Storm, Klaus Nielsen, 2016-10-19 Written by European professors and focusing on the specificities of European sport, When Sport Meets Business analyses the growing commercialisation of professional sport in recent years and explains how it has developed into a major global industry. Structured into four sections, the book covers the key issues in the Business of professional sport: The New Sport Environment - Analysing the consequences of increasing commercialisation by looking at the multi-billion dollar sports goods industry; the effects of globalisation and how commercial influences have made running one of Europe's most popular sports. Sport Marketing and Media - Investigating the role media and marketing has in commercialisation, with emphasis on the growth of sponsorship; media rights in European club football and the growing influence of social media in sport. Sport and Finance - Relating to the economics of European sport: there is an investigation into the financial policies employed by European Football clubs, specifically in regards to the Financial Fair Play regulations, and the topical issue of high level corruption. Sporting Events - Looking at additional factors that affect professional sport: highlighting the impact an Olympic Games can have on a host city and the longevity of an Olympic urban legacy. The authors have included insightful case studies from across the continent, including anti RB-Leipzig media campaigns in Germany, financial policies at England's Chelsea FC, French Tennis Federation corporate responsibility, Media rights in Spain's LaLiga, the sponsorship viability for Ukraine's Klitschko brothers and the case of Denmark's Viborg F.F. Suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate students in sport related courses, including sport management, sport economics, sport marketing and the sociology of sport.

Directory of Undergraduate Programs in Sport Management P. Greg Comfort, 2005 In 2001, the Directory of Academic Programs in Sport Management was Fitness Information Technology's first survey of sport management programs around the world. Now, FIT has teamed with the North American Society for Sport Management (NASSM) to put out, for the first time, a single directory that focuses solely on undergraduate programs. Led by new editor Greg Comfort, the resources of FIT and the NASSM combine to produce The 'Directory of Undergraduate Programs in Sport Management', allowing each program to be fully researched and representing a greater number of programs than the original book. The 'Directory of Undergraduate Programs in Sport Management' contains extensive information on more than 150 sport management undergraduate programs throughout both the United States and the world. The directory will help prospective undergraduate students find the appropriate school and field of study, sport management faculty advise prospective students in the field, and sport industry professionals recruit students for internships and employment. The Directory identifies many important features of each graduate program. Inside you will find valuable information: How to Contact Each Program; Faculty and Their Areas of Interest; Admissions Requirements; Financial Aid and Internship Opportunities; Educational Resources in Sport Management. An ideal resource for students, faculty, and practitioners involved in the field of sport management.

The New Sport Management Reader John Nauright, Steven Pope, 2009 Provides students and scholars with a selection of research and conceptual thinking in the field of sport management.

Sport and Information Technology Gretchen Ghent, Darlene Kluka, Denise Jones, 2002 The thorough dissemination of sport-science information to all interested organisations and institutions, and the application of sport science results to practical areas of sport. In each volume of Perspectives, expert contributions from several different sport science disciplines address relevant physical education and sport science themes. This collection of articles in this special issue of Perspectives reflects a part of the wide range of sport information. It includes articles on the delivery of audiovisual information to coaches, the use of the internet and websites to find information as well as the functions and the evolution of the sport documentation centre.

Sport and Society Barrie Houlihan, 2003-04-21 Organized around four themes key to the study of sport (perspectives, inclusion, commercialization and the international context), this text provides a student introduction to the field.
