Psychological Experiences and Responses in the Global South Amidst and Ahead of the Covid-19 Pandemic

Nelesh Dhanpat, Madelyn Geldenhuys, Shuan Ruggunan, The COVID-19 pandemic has led to increased strain and mental health problems due to changing working conditions. Given the existential nature of the pandemic, it remains crucial to establish employee effectiveness, resilience, and agility and to particularly understand the long-term psychological impact the pandemic might have on workplaces. It is essential to recognize how workplaces cope with work-from-home challenges and hybrid working beyond the crises. Building a narrative in our understanding of the psychological, cognitive, and physical experiences and responses of workplaces is critical. It provides the opportunity to help craft the way forward for organizations and employees.

Embraced by His Beauty: A Spiritual Journey to Allah Muthoifin, Alwy Ahmed Mohamed, Mahmudulhassan, Ari Anshori, This book was born from a deep yearning of the soul — a desire to better understand and come closer to the Creator of the heavens and the earth. In an age filled with noise, distraction, and spiritual confusion, the need to know Allah (ﷻ ﷻ) intimately and truthfully is more essential than ever. This work is a humble attempt to guide the reader through the majestic Names, Attributes, and signs of Allah, as presented in the Qur'an and the Sunnah of His Messenger Muhammad ﷺ. From a practical standpoint, Muslims must allow themselves to be guided by the Name of Allah, opening their minds to Him, placing their hopes in Him, and committing to follow His path. They should not depend on anyone but Him. They must avoid expecting help from others or placing their trust and hopes in anyone besides Him, especially in their prayers (du'a). Muslims are to fear, obey, and follow Allah alone—excluding all others.

Responding to Intimate Partner Violence and Sexual Violence Against Women World Health Organization, 2013 A health-care provider is likely to be the first professional contact for survivors of intimate partner violence or sexual assault. Evidence suggests that women who have been subjected to violence seek health care more often than non-abused women, even if they do not disclose the associated violence. They also identify health-care providers as the professionals they would most trust with disclosure of abuse. These guidelines are an unprecedented effort to equip healthcare providers with evidence-based guidance as to how to respond to intimate partner violence and sexual violence against women. They also provide advice for policy makers, encouraging better coordination and funding of services, and greater attention to responding to sexual violence and partner violence within training programmes for health care providers. The guidelines are based on systematic reviews of the evidence, and cover: 1. identification and clinical care for intimate partner violence 2. clinical care for sexual assault 3. training relating to intimate partner violence and sexual assault against women 4. policy and programmatic approaches to delivering services 5. mandatory reporting of intimate partner violence. The guidelines aim to raise awareness of violence against women among health-care providers and policy-makers, so that they better understand the need for an appropriate health-sector response. They provide standards that can form the basis for national guidelines, and for integrating these issues into health-care provider education.
