Mastering Money Praise George,2020-11-05 One of the primary principles of Economics is that human needs are insatiable. The more you meet them, the more they seem to reappear. The more money we make, the more we need to make. We need money to meet all our pressing routine and daily needs. Without money to meet these needs, we will be at the mercy of circumstances and events. Money is a reward for the creation and the delivery of value. Money is not a reward for your spirituality, your prayer, your morality, your religious activity, your charitable activities, your educational qualifications or your race. Money is a reward for value. Some people think that religious activities and acts of kindness will somehow translate into attracting money to you. This is not true. The same goes for people who believe the universe will grant them every intention on their mind without creating and delivering any form of value. They make many affirmations with the intention of attracting riches. But good intentions and affirmations without action is self delusion. For your affirmations to come into manifestation you have to take action. This book will show you some strategies to help you become financially independent.

The 5 Secrets to Financial Freedom Adrian Gee, 2019-01-17 If you were to poll 1,000 individuals about their ideas of how people amass wealth, chances are good that they would list some pretty obvious options, such as: * High-paying degrees * Inheritance * Getting into entertainment (music, movies, etc.) * Marrying into it The truth is very different. In fact, it's radically different. And, if you want to stand a chance of building wealth while you're young and still able to enjoy it, rather than hoping against hope that you have enough money to make it through retirement, you need to realize the truth about wealth building. We are also wrong about what wealth is. To most people, it's annual income. The more you earn per year, the wealthier you are, right? Yes and no. Annual income definitely plays into it, but it's about more than what you pull down in your yearly salary. Real wealth is what you have at any given time, collected and used to bolster your financial independence. How do people build wealth? * They're dedicated to living below their means even when they have more than ample cash and credit. * They're smart about using their resources and understand the truth about what their resources actually are. * They realize that true wealth has little to do with social * They make smart decisions about seizing opportunities on the market. * They realize the importance of making smart employment choices. Within 'The 5 Secrets to Financial Freedom', we will explore those five areas and related topics. The goal is to give you a comprehensive overview of not just how to build wealth, but how to ensure that you can do so before retirement age. After all, what good does it do to be wealthy if you're too old, tired, or sick to enjoy the benefits? The truth is that you are better positioned in your 20s and 30s to create wealth now than at almost any other age. And, what's more, you don't have to wait decades for your investments to mature to realize the benefits of financial independence. Yes, it will take time to build your success, but the most significant change is going to be to your mindset.'The 5 Secrets to Financial Freedom' is broken down into five separate chapters, each dedicated to one secret of financial freedom and fleshed out with a wide range of vital topics that speak to not just the why of things, but how you can put this information to use in your life right this minute. For example, in our first chapter, we'll discuss the importance of living below your means. However, we'll dive deep into the topic in order to help you really understand what that means, and provide you with actionable steps so you can start right now.If you have ever wondered why, if you're a hard-working individual who already earns a good living, why you're not affluent, 'The 5 Secrets to Financial Freedom' is for you.
