

What Happened To Regina Louise Birth Mother

Shirley Isabel Bradshaw

Childhood Interrupted Kathleen O'Malley, 2011-09-08 In 1950, Kathleen O'Malley and her two sisters were legally abducted from their mother and placed in an industrial school ran by the Sisters of Mercy order of nuns, who also ran the notorious Magdalene Homes. The rape of eight-year-old Kathleen by a neighbour had triggered their removal - the Irish authorities ruling that her mother must have been negligent. They were only allowed a strictly supervised visit once a year, until they were permitted to leave the harsh and cruel regime of the institution at the age of sixteen. But Kate survived her traumatic childhood and escaped her past by leaving for England and then Australia when the British government offered a scheme to encourage settlement there. Fleeing her past again, Kate worked as a governess in Paris and then returned to England where she trained as a beautician at Elizabeth Arden. She married and had a son. A turning point in Kate's life came when she applied to become a magistrate and realised that she had to confront her hidden personal history and make it public. This is her inspiring story.

Mary Neufeld and the Repphun Story Herman A. Neufeld, 1987 Mary Repphun Neufeld was born in Russia in 1905. Her parents had 19 children many of whom did not survive childhood in peasant Russia. In 1910 Mary was sent to work and live in the Neufeld home. Most of the family immigrated to America before World War I. Mary and one of her sisters immigrated soon after the war. She lived with her family before moving to Canada to marry John Neufeld. She remained in Canada and raised a family while her siblings had their families in the United States. This book contains short articles on her siblings as well as information on both her original family and her foster family as they left Russia and came to North America.
