Quotes by James Russell Lowell Lilith Regan,2020-04-05 And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days; Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune, And over it softly her warm ear lays. One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning. Once to every person and nation come the moment to decide. In the conflict of truth with falsehood, for the good or evil side. Not what we give, But what we share, For the gift without the giver Is bare. Not failure, but low aim, is crime. They are slaves who fear to speak, For the fallen and the weak. Books are the bees which carry the quickening pollen from one to another mind. All the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action. As life runs on, the road grows strange with faces new - and near the end. The milestones into headstones change, Neath every one a friend. The heart forgets its sorrow and ache.
