Studies of religion ,1991

Studies of Religion ,2005-10 Studies of Religion has been written to meet the requirements of the new Studies of Religion syllabus, 2006. This new text emphasises the holistic study of religious traditions and provides substantial material on the three new studies included in the syllabus. Five major religious traditions are introduced in the first half of the text and are explored in greater depth in the second half. This text also offers a range of stimulating activities and case studies that relate to the role of religion and religious expression. In this way, students are encouraged to reflect upon the nature of religion in Australian society and throughout the world. The writing team has had extensive experience in the planning, implementation and teaching of Religious Studies at secondary school and higher education levels.

Studies in Religion and Education John M. Hull, 2018-12-07 First published in 1984. John M. Hull was a leading figure in the controversies which had surrounded religious education since the late 1960s. This book brings together in one volume 21 of his published papers and articles, which had previously appeared in journals, conferences, reports and books in Belgium, Australia, Canada, the United States, as well as the United Kingdom. This book is essential reading for all teachers, clergy, parents and students seriously concerned with the issues confronting religious education and Christian upbringing in our secular and pluralist world.

Studies of Religion, 1991

Reasons for Living Marisa L. Crawford, Graham Rossiter, 2006 Reasons for Living begins by exploring the development and psychological function of meaning, identity and spirituality in the lives of young people. This exploration can contribute significantly to the professional background of those engaged in the education and care of youth in various contexts. The book then focuses on what it means to educate young people in meaning, identity and spirituality. Implications are considered for three school contexts: the spiritual and moral dimension to the general curriculum in public and independent schools; religious education in religious schools; and state-based Religion Studies courses. Reasons for Living makes a much needed contribution to the philosophy of education by discussing the links between education and young people's spiritual and moral development. It also provides new insights and approaches to values education and religious education. Areas of fundamental importance in Australian education have long been held back not only by the gap between theory and practice, but also by the very complexities of young people's personal development in contemporary Western Culture. Reasons for Living offers a constructive and practical way forward.
