Rebecca Hughes

Teaching and Researching: Speaking Rebecca Hughes,2013-11-04 Speaking is a dynamic, interpersonal process and one that strongly influences how we are perceived by others in a range of formal and everyday contexts. Despite this, speaking is often researched and taught as if it is simply writing delivered in a different mode. In Teaching and Researching Speaking, Rebecca Hughes suggests that we have less understanding than we might of important meaning-making aspects of speech such as prosody, gaze, affect, and the ways speakers collaborate and negotiate with one another in interaction. This thoroughly revised and updated second edition looks to the future of the field, offering: A new chapter on assessment, discussing 'high stakes' oral language testing contexts such as immigration New material considering access to spoken data via the worldwide web and new technologies that allow neurolinguistic insights formerly hidden from view Summaries and case studies to help the reader understand how to approach researching speaking and encourages practitioners to question the models of speaking that they are using in their classrooms. Reviewing materials and assessment practices in the light of current knowledge about spoken language, and highlighting areas for new work and collaboration between researchers and practitioners, this book will be a valuable resource for anyone involved in language teaching.

Assessing Speaking in Context M. Rafael Salaberry,Alfred Rue Burch,2021-07-23 This edited volume investigates the nature and possible applications of an expanded and reconceptualized theoretical construct of speaking as a dynamic socially-constructed endeavour. It addresses both theoretical perspectives and methodological procedures to define and circumscribe the assessment of contextualized speaking. The chapters focus on the complexity brought about by actual interactional competence in speaking tasks and discuss how testing and assessment models and practices can incorporate recent research findings on the inherently dynamic and situated nature of language use. The volume presents research on language assessment in a variety of languages other than English, including French, Chinese and Japanese. It also examines the role that embodied action (gaze, gesture, orientation to materials and texts in the environment) plays in assessment practices, an area that has heretofore remained under-explored. Chapter 6 is free to download as an open access publication under a CC BY NC ND licence. You can access it here: https://zenodo.org/record/5163340#.YQvJ0IhKjcs Disfluency and Proficiency in Second Language Speech Production Simon Williams,2023-01-01 This book explores the concept of disfluency in speech production, particularly as it occurs in the context of second language acquisition.

Drawing on examples from learner speech at three levels (beginner, intermediate and advanced), the author argues that acquiring target language norms for performing disfluency is essential to an individual being recognized as fluent in a language by fellow-speakers. Starting with a survey of the psycholinguistic research in this area, he then applies a sociolinguistic lens to examine how a learner's social and educational background impacts the types of disfluencies in their speech. This book will be of interest to readers in fields such as (applied) linguistics and second language acquisition, psychology and education.

Meaning-Focused Materials for Language Learning Marina Bouckaert,Monique Konings,Marjon van Winkelhof,2019-01-10 This publication is a result of the joint conference held by MATSDA and Fontys University of Applied Sciences, the Netherlands, in Tilburg in June 2017. MATSDA is an international materials development association founded in 1993 which serves to bring together researchers, teachers, materials developers and publishers in an effort to improve the effectiveness of language learning materials. The 2017 conference centred on issues related to the development of meaning-focused materials for language learning, and attracted presenters from twenty-five countries stretching from Greenland to Brazil. These issues are reflected in the chapters in this volume, with each one focusing on a different aspect of meaning-focused materials and many of them introducing the reader to previously unexplored facets of the theory of meaning-focused instruction and its application to materials development. The contributions here are of essential value to post-graduate students, to teachers, to materials developers and to researchers. They are written to be academically rigorous, but at the same time accessible to newcomers to the field and to experienced experts alike.

The Relationship Between Speaking Features and Band Descriptors ,2014 This study looked at the relationship between how candidates speak in the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) speaking test and the scores they were given. The researchers identified the features of their talk which were associated with high and low scores. Fluency, grammatical complexity, range and accuracy were analysed.

The Development of a Common Framework Scale of Language Proficiency Brian North,2000 Scales describing language proficiency in a series of levels can provide orientation for educational programmes, criteria for assessment, and reporting to stakeholders. However, in most cases such instruments are produced just by expert opinion. A scale of language proficiency actually implies a descriptive scheme related to theory but usable by practitioners. It also implies a methodology for scaling content to different levels. This book describes the use of both qualitative and quantitative techniques to develop scales for the «Common Reference Levels» in the Common European Framework of Reference for modern languages. Short stand-alone descriptors were (i) developed and classified, (ii) refined and elaborated in workshops, and then (iii) scaled by analyzing the judgments of one hundred teachers on the English language proficiency of the learners in their classes.

ESOL Tests and Testing Stephen Stoynoff,2005 This volume describes how ESOL tests and test users have changed greatly in the past few decades. Some widely used ESOL tests have been revised, with a number of new tests incorporating advances in computer technology. In addition, many more ESOL practitioners than in the past are responsible for selecting and using tests. Stephen Stoynoff and Carol A. Chapelle introduce teachers and administrators to the principles, methods, and vocabulary of language assessment. Twenty-one reviewers of ESOL tests consider test purpose, methods, and justification of their use in particular situations.

An Examination of Discourse Competence at Different Proficiency Levels in IELTS Speaking ,2015 This report investigates characteristics of test-taker performance on IELTS Speaking Part 2 at Levels 5, 6 and 7 focusing on test-takers' strategies for producing comprehensible, high-quality speech with various devices. The features of performance identified in the study were co-referenced with the IELTS Speaking Band Descriptors. The report investigates the features of discourse competence observed in IELTS Speaking Part 2 performance and how the distinctive features of performance correlate to the IELTS Speaking Band Descriptors. The research undertook detailed examination of test-taker oral discourse at three proficiency levels. The transcribed 58 speech samples (18-20 examples at each level) of IELTS Speaking Part 2 were analysed both quantitatively and qualitatively, and the features of discourse competence analysed in the study included both cohesive devices (use of reference, ellipsis and substitution, lexical cohesion, conjunctions) and coherence devices (including text generic structure and theme-rheme development). Linguistik als Kulturwissenschaft Hartmut Schröder,Petra Kumschlies,María González,2001 Diese Festschrift zum 60. Geburtstag von Prof. Bernd Spillner enthDiese Festschrift zum 60. Geburtstag von Prof. Bernd Spillner enthält Beiträge zu Fragen der Fachsprachen- und Stilforschung, des Sprachvergleichs, der Kontaktlinguistik, der Textforschung und des Fremdsprachenerwerbs. Es werden Erkenntnisse der Angewandten Linguistik geboten, die den Rahmen der traditionellen Auffassung von Linguistik weit überschreiten. Sprache ist immer an Kultur gebunden. Die Vielfältigkeit der Beiträge spiegelt dementsprechend den Trend der Entwicklung der Linguistik zur Kulturwissenschaft wider und bietet Anregungen nicht nur für Linguisten, sondern für alle, die mit Sprache zu tun haben, vom Fremdsprachendidaktiker über den Literaturwissenschaftler und Übersetzungswissenschaftler bis hin zum Kommunikations- und Kulturwissenschaftler.
