The Ecosystemic Decision Rita Carrizo,2022-04-12 The human brain is neutral, it does not distinguish between right and wrong, ethical and non-ethical behaviour. It only learns and optimizes whatever is repeated Talking about risks implies talking about decisions, those we do make and those we don't. Learning how to manage those risks requires considering the decision content and, fundamentally, understanding what drives us to make a decision. We would all probably agree that the current state of the global ecosystem demands urgent action. It seems that changing radically the way in which we decide is necessary for all the species of the planet to keep on coexisting. But, how do we do it? Why are we still chained to a decision-making model that has shown to be poor in terms of sustainability and ethics? It may be that the answer lies in our own evolution, but what kind of biological and cultural evolution process transformed humans into not so good decision-makers at recognizing and becoming responsible for the impacts and potential responses of the ecosystem towards their decisions? This book approaches these questions with a view to understanding who has been and who currently is the Western decision-maker. It proposes a paradigm shift that makes ecosystemic management of decisions and risks possible. Through a deep reflection about the topic, Rita Carrizo -the author- seeks to connect contributions from the fields of biology, genetics, sociobiology, neurosciences, systems thinking and ontology of language.

En la segunda fase, el objetivo era elegir a los expertos. Nuestro Panel de Expertos quedó constituido por 24 Directores/as de Marketing que pertenecen a Organizaciones de Actividad Servicios (74,96%) e Industria (24,81%). En la tercera fase, un objetivo importante era obtener el Perfil Competencial del Puesto Director/a de Marketing, así como conocer el peso de cada una de ellas. Para ello, utilizamos una metodología de decisión multicriterio el AHP, mediante su soporte informático del Expert Choice 2000. La cuarta fase está recogida en su totalidad en el capítulo 7. Este capítulo se dedica a la presentación de los principales resultados. Y, al final en el capítulo 8, se presenta una síntesis de las conclusiones obtenidas en nuestro estudio.

Migración interna en América Latina y el Caribe Jorge Rodríguez Vignoli, 2004 Hacia finales del decenio de 1970, la migración interna en los países de América Latina y el Caribe fue objeto de numerosas investigaciones nacionales y regionales y llevó a una amplia discusión política y académica. Posteriormente, en los decenios de 1980 y 1990, el estudio de la migración interna se contrajo. Hay argumentos y evidencia fragmentaria y puntual para señalar que algunos cambios estructurales modificaron el patrón migratorio y lo convirtieron en predominantemente urbano-urbano. El procesamiento de los microdatos de los censos de la región - que hasta hace poco era una opción técnicamente inviable pero que en la actualidad es factible gracias al software REDATAM desarrollado por CELADE - permite ampliar y profundizar el conocimiento de estos cambios.
