Investigation of Warm-mix Asphalt Using Iowa Aggregates Ashley Buss,Mohamed Rashwan,R. Christopher Williams,2011 The three main factors for this study were WMA/HMA, moisture-conditioned/not moisture-conditioned, and reheated/not reheated. Mixes were evaluated based on performance tests. Binder testing was performed to determine the rheological differences between HMA and WMA binders to determine if binder grade requirements change with the addition of WMA additives. The conclusions of this study are as follows: Reduced mixing and compaction temperatures were achieved. Statistical differences were found when comparing tensile strength ration (TSR) values for both laboratory- and field-produced mixes. In the laboratory, none of the WMA additives performed as well as the HMA. For the field mixes, all TSR values passed Iowa's minimum specification of 0.8 but, on average, WMA is lower compared to HMA TSR values. Dynamic modulus results show that, on average, HMA will have higher dynamic modulus values.
