Wrong Turns, Right Moves in Education Deborah Rhea Ed.D.,2019-03-22 As an American educator with decades of experience, Dr. Deborah J. Rhea had a burning desire to know why Finland's educational system was top ranked in the world, while the United States fell in the middle of the pack. She made it her mission to learn what she could. Rhea took a six-week trip to Finland, where she lived and learned from the best in their schools and government. During that period, her observations revealed that her generation experienced life and education very differently from children today. The philosophies and principles she saw reflected in the Finnish educational system helped open her eyes to the many wrong turns that the United States has made in education over the last thirty years. What's more, Rhea presents the right moves needed to get the country back on track for a healthier, happier method of educating children. In this study, an experienced educator compares the educational approaches of Finland and the United States, considering ways that the latter might be adjusted and improved.

The Right Move Liz Tomforde,2024-03-05 A star basketball player discovers his sister's best friend might be the answer to all his problems...and maybe more in this steamy TikTok sensation. Ryan Shay is the newest captain of the Chicago Devils, and the last thing he needs is for Indy Ivers, his sister's best friend, to move into his apartment. She's messy, emotional, and way too tempting. But when the team's General Manager vocalizes his blatant disapproval of Ryan's promotion to Captain—citing his lack of work-life balance—Ryan can't think of a better way to convince his GM otherwise than pretending to date his outgoing roommate. The only problem? Faking it feels far too natural. Indy never imagined she'd be living with her best friend's NBA-superstar brother. Even more unbelievable? He needs her to act as his loving girlfriend and pretend he's changed into a friendly and approachable guy. Because, well...he's not. He's controlling of his space and untrusting of others. Falling for her new roommate was never part of the deal, especially when Ryan is quick to remind Indy that he doesn't believe in love. But no matter how good his defense is, not even Ryan can resist Indy's charm.

Sold Out Alex Molnar,Faith Boninger,2015-08-07 If you strip away the rosy language of "school-business partnership," "win-win situation," "giving back to the community," and the like, what you see when you look at corporate marketing activities in the schools is example after example of the exploitation of children for financial gain. Over the long run the financial benefit marketing in schools delivers to corporations rests on the ability of advertising to "brand" students and thereby help insure that they will be customers for life. This process of “branding” involves inculcating the value of consumption as the primary mechanism for achieving happiness, demonstrating success, and finding fulfillment. Along the way, “branding” children – just like branding cattle – inflicts pain. Yet school districts, desperate for funding sources, often eagerly welcome marketers and seem not to recognize the threats that marketing brings to children’s well-being and to the integrity of the education they receive. Given that all ads in school pose some threat to children, it is past time for considering whether marketing activities belong in school. Schools should be ad-free zones.

India-Vietnam Relations Reena Marwah, Lê Thị Hằng Nga, 2022-01-04 This book provides an in-depth analysis of the close cultural links between India and Vietnam. It discusses the issues of trade negotiations under the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) and the Indo-Pacific construct. Issues such as strengthening the economic partnership, contemporary development challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic, including weakening supply chains, and geo-strategic tensions are explored in this book. It enriches understanding of the potential of the two countries to develop as manufacturing hubs for the region and beyond. Given the more aggressive posturing by China in 2020, the concluding chapter includes the policy prescriptions with a futuristic vision, for India and Vietnam to catalyze their strategic and bilateral partnership. Well researched and analytical, the book draws extensively from several interviews of experts, diplomats, journalists, businesspersons, and members of the diaspora. It is a must read for students, researchers, think tanks, area study centers, and all institutions engaged in Asian studies, encompassing narratives extending from the developmental to political, from the bilateral to the multilateral and from the geo-economic to the geo-strategic.
