Documenting Spain: Artists, Exhibition Culture, and the Modern Nation, 1929-1939 , The news media have given us potent demonstrations of the ambiguity of ostensibly truthful representations of public events. Jordana Mendelson uses this ambiguity as a framework for the study of Spanish visual culture from 1929 to 1939--a decade marked, on the one hand, by dictatorship, civil war, and Franco's rise to power and, on the other, by a surge in the production of documentaries of various types, from films and photographs to international exhibitions. Mendelson begins with an examination of El Pueblo Español, a model Spanish village featured at the 1929 International Exposition in Barcelona. She then discusses Buñuel's and Dalí's documentary films, relating them not only to French Surrealism but also to issues of rural tradition in the formation of regional and national identities. Her highly original book concludes with a discussion of the 1937 Spanish Pavilion, where Picasso's famed painting of the Fascist bombing of a Basque town--Guernica--was exhibited along with monumental photomurals by Josep Renau. Based upon years of archival research, Mendelson's book opens a new perspective on the cultural politics of a turbulent era in modern Spain. It explores the little-known yet rich intersection between avant-garde artists and government institutions. It shows as well the surprising extent to which Spanish modernity was fashioned through dialogue between the seemingly opposed fields of urban and rural, fine art, and mass culture.

Dead Men Telling Tales Matilda Greig,2021 Dead Men Telling Tales is an original account of the lasting cultural impact made by the autobiographies of Napoleonic soldiers over the course of the nineteenth century. Focusing on the nearly three hundred military memoirs published by British, French, Spanish, and Portuguese veterans of the Peninsular War (1808-1814), Matilda Greig charts the histories of these books over the course of a hundred years, around Europe and the Atlantic, and from writing to publication to afterlife. Drawing on extensive archival research in multiple languages, she challenges assumptions made by historians about the reliability of these soldiers' direct eyewitness accounts, revealing the personal and political motives of the authors and uncovering the large cast of characters, from family members to publishers, editors, and translators, involved in production behind the scenes. By including literature from Spain and Portugal, Greig also provides a missing link in current studies of the Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars, showing how the genre of military memoirs developed differently in south-western Europe and led to starkly opposing national narratives of the same war. Her findings tell the history of a publishing phenomenon which gripped readers of all ages across the world in the nineteenth century, made significant profits for those involved, and was fundamental in defining the modern 'soldier's tale'.

Construyendo bóvedas tabicadas ,2012 La bóveda es un invento de hace unos 6.000 años en Oriente. Las bóvedas sin cimbra aparecen unos 1.000 años después. Aunque las bóvedas tabicadas solo parecen tener unos mil años de antigüedad son también bóvedas sin cimbra. Si queremos conocer las bóvedas tabicadas debemos entenderlas como la culminación de una etapa que tiene miles de años y que ha pasado por muchas culturas. Por otra parte no es frecuente que un sistema constructivo milenario siga despertando asombro e interés hoy en día. Ocurrió también en el siglo pasado. Arquitectos tan diferentes como los Guastavino, Gaudí o Le Corbusier lo acogieron con entusiasmo. Acaso solo un sistema tan sencillo y versátil podía permitir las inesperadas formas de adaptación a cada época y a cada estilo.
