The Biomedical Laser Leon Goldman, 2013-11-09 The laser's range of application is extraordinary. Arthur Schawlow says, What instrument can shuck a bucket of oysters, correct typing errors, fuse atoms, lay a straight line for a garden bed, repair detached retinas, and drill holes in diamonds? The laser's specifically biomedical uses cover a similarly broad and interesting spectrum. In this book, I have endeavored to convey some of the fascination that the laser has long held for me. It is my hope that both clinicians and researchers in the various medical and surgical specialties will find the book a useful introduction. Biologists, particularly molecular biologists, should also find a great deal of relevant information herein. This volume's distinguished contributors provide admirably lucid discussions of laser principles, instrumentation, and current practice in their respective specialties. Safety, design, capabilities, and costs of various lasers are also reviewed. We have aimed to create a practical text that is comprehensive but not exhaustive. Our emphasis on the practical, rather than the esoteric, is dictated not only by the short history of biomedical laser use, but by the extent of the community to which this information will appeal.

Human Biological Interactions with Laser Light Naval Electronics Laboratory Center, T. O. Huston, 1967 The report discusses the effect of laser light on the human body, particularly the eye. It includes calculations of the results to be expected for some common commercial gas lasers. Emphasis is placed upon low power lasers which are the most frequently mishandled. (Author).

The Non-nuclear Defense of Cities Daniel Orrin Graham,1983 The active defense of large populated areas against nuclear-armed ballistic missile bombardment has been one of the abiding problems of modern military strategy. In this technical volume addressed to policy analysts and military specialists, former Lt. General Daniel Graham offers a comprehensive blueprint and strategic rationale for non-nuclear protection of urban populations. The system described consists of a combination of spaceborne boost-phase and midcourse interceptors of attacking ballistic missiles, plus a ground-based missile defense, all using non-nuclear kill mechanisms. He also shows how such a system could be militarily sound, technologically feasible, fiscally responsible, and politically practical before 1990. ISBN 0-89011-586-9 : $25.00.
