The Conservation of Archaeological Sites in the Mediterranean Region Marta De la Torre,1998-02-26 One of the greatest challenges faced today by those responsible for ancient cultural sites is that of maintaining the delicate balance between conserving these fragile resources and making them available to increasing numbers of visitors. Tourism, unchecked development, and changing environmental conditions threaten significant historical sites throughout the world. These issues are among the topics dealt with in this book, which reports on the proceedings of an international conference on the conservation of classical sites in the Mediterranean region, organized by the Getty Conservation Institute and the J. Paul Getty Museum. The book includes chapters discussing management issues at three sites: Piazza Armerina, Sicily; Knossos, Crete; and Ephesus, Turkey. While visiting these sites, conference participants examined how issues raised at these locales can illuminate the challenges of management and conservation faced by complex heritage sites the world over. Additional chapters discuss such topics as the management of cultural sites, the reconstruction of ancient buildings, and ways of presenting and interpreting sites for today's visitors.

Piazza Armerina Roger John Anthony Wilson,1983 Erected in the fourth century A.A., the villa at Piazza Armerina in southern Sicily was the most opulent country residence of late Roman times. Its exquisite, often beautifully preserved mosaics have made it a favored place of pilgrimage for travelers for many years. In this readable and fascinating guide to Piazza Armerina, Wilson examines the famous mosaics in detail and describes as well the overall layout, design, and embellishment of the villa, including its frescoes and statuary remains. Hi identifies the mysterious owner of this magnificent country home as a millionaire of the Italian senatorial class. He compares it with other such splendid residences in North Africa, Spain, Yugoslavia, France, and Italy and reassesses Piazza Armerina particularly in the light of two huge, newly discovered villas elsewhere in Sicily. Illustrating his text with many excellent photographs and maps of the site, Wilson clearly sets out conflicting views about the villa's unity of scheme, the precursors of the mosaics, the function of Piazza Armerina in the region, and the dating of its construction. An invaluable contribution to late Roman studies, Piazza Armerina will be of interest not only to archeologists, classical historians, and students of Roman art and architecture but to visiting and armchair travelers as well. -- Publisher description.

Images of Children in Byzantium Cecily Hennessy,2008 This book covers a subject that has never previously been addressed, and yet it is both a fascinating and a provocative one: the representation of children in Byzantium. The visual material is extensive, intriguing and striking, and the historical context is crucially important to our understanding of Byzantine culture, social history and artistic output. Cecily Hennessy demonstrates that children are featured often in visual imagery and in key locations, indicating that they played a central role in Byzantine life. In tackling this new subject she reveals important aspects of childhood, youth, and by extension adulthood in Byzantine society and raises issues that are also applicable to the present and to other historical contexts.

Iconica Alessandro Riva,2005 Juxtaposing contemporary artworks with the archeological wonders of Sicily may sound gimmicky, but the result, intelligently overseen by noted Italian art critic Alessandro Riva, provides some fascinating correspondences. The compositional style of a mosaic-like painting from Sandro Chia resonates with an ancient mosaic in the Piazza Armerina. A new Mimmo Rotella décollage honors a bronze satyr recently rescued from the sea. There's even a place here for as conceptually minded an artist as Wim Delvoye, whose industrial canisters decorated in the manner of fine Dutch ceramics remind us that the amphoras they are placed among from the archaeological museum of Lipari were also utilitarian objects. Other participating artists are Luigi Ontani, Aron Demetz, Paola Gandolfi, Carlo Maria Mariani, Ryan Mendoza, Luca Pignatelli and Velasco, their work an acknowledgement of how the ancient past has nurtured contemporary visions.
