Marcus Aurelius, Jeremy Collier

Meditations Marcus Aurelius, 1997 The Meditations of Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius are a readable exposition of the system of metaphysics known as stoicism. Stoics maintained that by putting aside great passions, unjust thoughts and indulgence, man could acquire virtue and live at one with nature. The Meditations were composed in periods of inaction during the wars which Marcus hated but was compelled to fight.

Meditations Marcus Aurelius, 2006-04-27 'Their icy blasts are refreshing and restorative. They tell you the worst. And having heard the worst, you feel less bad' Blake Morrison Written in Greek by the only Roman emperor who was also a philosopher, without any intention of publication, the Meditations of Marcus Aurelius offer a remarkable series of challenging spiritual reflections and exercises developed as the emperor struggled to understand himself and make sense of the universe. While the Meditations were composed to provide personal consolation and encouragement, Marcus Aurelius also created one of the greatest of all works of philosophy: a timeless collection that has been consulted and admired by statesmen, thinkers and readers throughout the centuries. Translated with notes by MARTIN HAMMOND with an Introduction by DISKIN CLAY

The Meditations of Marcus Aurelius Marcus Aurelius, 2017-04-29 About Marcus Aurelius Meditations Meditations is a series of personal writings by Marcus Aurelius, Roman Emperor from 161 to 180 AD, recording his private notes to himself and ideas on Stoic philosophy. Marcus Aurelius wrote the 12 books of the Meditations in Koine Greek as a source for his own guidance and self-improvement. It is possible that large portions of the work were written at Sirmium, where he spent much time planning military campaigns from 170 to 180. It is unlikely that Marcus Aurelius ever intended his Meditations to be published and the work has no official title, so Meditations is one of several titles commonly assigned to the collection. These writings take the form of quotations varying in length from one sentence to long paragraphs. About this translation of Marcus Aurelius Meditations This is the classic and official translation of the Meditations as produced by George Long and originally printed in The Harvard Classics. What you get when you buy this edition of Meditations This edition of Meitations is an 80 page long 9x6 trade paperback edition in creme paper and a black glossy cover. Famous quotes from this edition of Meditations Do not act as if thou wert going to live ten thousand years. Death hangs over thee. While thou livest, while it is in thy power, be good. Why do you hunger for length of days? The point of life is to follow reason and the divine spirit and to accept whatever nature sends you. To live in this way is not to fear death, but to hold it in contempt. Death is only a thing of terror for those unable to live in the present. Pass on your way, then, with a smiling face, under the smile of him who bids you go. Do not then consider life a thing of any value. For look at the immensity of time behind thee, and to the time which is before thee, another boundless space. In this infinity then what is the difference between him who lives three days and him who lives three generations? TA cucumber is bitter. Throw it away. There are briars in the road. Turn aside from them. This is enough. Do not add, And why were such things made in the world? If thou art pained by any external thing, it is not this that disturbs thee, but thy own judgment about it. And it is in thy power to wipe out this judgment now. What a reader says about Marcus Aurelius Meditations We find several recurring themes in The Meditations: develop self-discipline to gain control over judgments and desires; overcoming a fear of death; value an ability to retreat into a rich, interior mental life

(one's inner citadel); recognize the world as a manifestation of the divine; live according to reason; avoid luxury and opulence. But generalizations will not approach the richness and wisdom nuggets a reader will find in Marcus's actual words.-Glenn Russel

Meditations of Marcus Aurelius Marcus Aurelius,2021-01-11 A beautifully formatted, easy to read version of a timeless classic!The Meditations present the daily Stoic practice of Marcus Aurelius, emperor of Rome from 161 to 180 AD. Likely written during his years on various military campaigns across the empire, they reflect his efforts to improve himself by fully assimilating the basic principles of Stoicism as put forth by Epictetus, a Greek slave who became the greatest philosopher of his time. To read the Meditations is to see how a practicing Stoic again and again will formulate for himself the central dogmas of Stoicism--that everywhere and at all times it is in your power to accept your present condition reverently, to behave justly to those around you, and to exert your skill to control your thoughts, that nothing shall steal into them without being well examined (VII, 54). The primary philosophical influence on Marcus Aurelius was Epictetus, who set forth the basic principles and dogmas of Stoicism and advised practicing Stoics that these are the things that philosophers ought to study; it is these that they should write about each day; and it is in these that they should exercise themselves (Discourses I, 1.25). To read Marcus Aurelius's Meditations is to witness just such study and exercise. We see the emperor formulating the same small set of principles, rules, and themes over and over again: The basic Stoic principle: The only good is virtue or moral good (VIII, 1). The three rules/disciplines of judgment, action, and desire: Your present judgment founded on understanding, and your present conduct directed to social good, and your present disposition of contentment with everything which happens--that is enough (IX, 6). The various dogmas or themes: Tranquility is nothing else than the good ordering of the mind (IV, 3). [Men do wrong because of] their ignorance of what is good and evil (II, 1). All things happen according to the universal nature; a man's wrongful act is nothing to you; everything which happens, always happened so and will happen so, and now happens so everywhere; the close kinship between you and the whole human race is not of a little blood or seed, but of intelligence; every man's intelligence is a god, and is an efflux of the deity; nothing is a man's own, but that his child and his body and his very soul came from the deity; everything is judgment/opinion; every man lives the present time only, and loses only this (a list of eight dogmas, all from XII, 26). Marcus did what his philosophical master Epictetus called for practicing Stoics to do. He formulated and reformulated just these principles and themes, and the result of this practice of writing is his Meditations. Read and imitate his practice! If you do, you too might have these reflections at hand by night and day. Write them down, read them, talk about them, both to yourself, and to somebody else (Discourses III, 24.103).

The Meditations of Marcus Aurelius Aurelius Marcus, George Long, 1993 The Roman emperor Marcus Aurelius Antoninus (a.d. 121--180) embodied in his person that deeply cherished, ideal figure of antiquity, the philosopher-king. His Meditations are not only one of the most important expressions of the Stoic philosophy of his time but also an enduringly inspiring guide to living a good and just life. Written in moments snatched from military campaigns and the rigors of politics, these ethical and spiritual reflections reveal a mind of exceptional clarity and originality, and a spirit attuned to both the particulars of human destiny and the vast patterns that underlie it. A. S. L. Farquharson (1871--1942) spent a lifetime on his edition of the Meditations, which is one of the outstanding twentieth-century achievements of classical scholarship. All the notes to the Farquharson translation, amplifying the twelve books of the Meditations, are included in this volume.
