Lee Owen Wilcox

Education in Egypt (RLE Egypt) Judith Cochran, 2012-11-23 Egyptian education is a central, social and economic force in the Middle East. For hundreds of years Al Azhar University has been the centre of Islamic thinking and education. More recently Egypt became the leader in secular education as Mohammed Ali established the first medical, veterinarian, engineering and accounting schools in the Middle East. Nasser expanded Egyptian educational leadership by providing free education for Muslim students from neighbouring countries. The extensive exportation of Egyptian educators to initiate and educate in schools and universities throughout the Arab speaking world has shaped the secular and religious leaders of those countries. This book traces the history of Egyptian education over the last hundred years and highlights the key factors which have given Egyptian education its particular quality and influence within the Arab world. First published 1986.

Arab Republic of Egypt Lee Owen Wilcox, 1988 The educational system of Egypt is described, and guidelines are given for the placement of Egyptian students in U.S. colleges and universities. The following chapters are provided: (1) Introduction (history of education, administration, and finance); (2) Basic and Secondary Education (including standard and Al-Azhar schools, technical education and training of primary teachers); (3) University Education (history, administration, faculty, admissions, courses of study, grading, and graduate programs); (4) Other Postsecondary Education (intermediate and higher institutes and other institutions); and (5) Guidelines and Placement Recommendations (selectivity, catalogs, spelling, America & Mideast Education and Training Services Inc., Supreme Council of Universities, Cultural and Education Bureau, and placement recommendations). Appendices provide sample documents for basic and secondary education, undergraduate credentials, graduate credentials, nonuniversity postsecondary institutions, and a list of Egyptian National University Faculties and Institutes, 1984-85. A glossary and index are also provided. Contains 10 references. (KM)

Education in Modern Egypt Georgie D. M. Hyde, 2012-11-23 This study gives a comprehensive account of the evolution of the educational system in Modern Egypt, set against the events of the last twenty five years. From the Revolution of 1952, which saw the breakdown of the party system, seen as 'sham democracy', to the re-adoption of the party system in 1976, the Egyptian government has searched for an ideal system that is secular, but not irreligious, and benefitting from, but not copying, the western or eastern models. Professor Hyde has analysed the problems of the educational system, administrative, institutional, theoretical and practical, and related them to Egypt's urgent need to modernise the state, and to improve the quality of life of her hitherto deprived masses. The deficiencies of the system are discussed with emphasis on the attempts to provide solutions, mainly within the framework of reformed institutions. Informal and private education, literacy campaigns, women's aspirations and student welfare are all considered, as are policies and plans for the immediate and long-term solutions of Egypt's problems. The analysis also takes into account socio-economic factors in post-Revolutionary Egypt which not only constitute instruments of change in Egyptian society but also provide the restraints which prevent the rapid translation of educational ideals into reality. First published 1978.

Transforming Education in Egypt Fatma H. Sayed, 2006 Basic education has headed the agendas of development agencies in recent years. During this period, Egypt topped the recipients lists of development assistance and proclaimed education to be its national project. This study explains how the Egyptian political actors interacted with and reacted to the development aid to Egypt's educational system.

The Politics of Egyptian Education Nicholas Oscoff, 2007 Abstract: The paper The Politics of Egyptian Education is essentially a critical analysis of the state sponsored education system in Egypt. By examining the political issues behind foreign aid, the texts used in Egyptian schools, and the methodology used to teach, the research paper ultimately succeeds in exposing the gap between the rhetoric and the reality of the Egyptian school system. The paper attempts to shed light on the intentions of the Egyptian state with regard to the education system by interviewing students and teachers on a myriad of issue [sic] relevant to both pupil inculcation and administrative procedures. Furthermore, by gaining a deeper and clearer understanding of the education system, what follows is an increased understanding of the relationship between the Egyptian government and Egyptian society as a whole. The microcosm of the education system mirrors the macrocosm of the Egyptian society. Therefore, the major issues and tensions present in Egypt today are either directly or indirectly addressed in this research. These tensions include the rise in popular support of fundamental Islamic movements, the increasing disparity between economic classes in Egypt, and the widespread distrust many Egyptian [sic] feel towards their government. Ultimately the paper highlights the fact that the Egyptian government is taking measures to reinforce its stronghold over society given that in reality it is slowly losing its grip on society. These measures, discussed within the paper, take place both within the school system and the larger political arena.

Educating Egypt Linda Herrera, 2022-03-01 The everyday practices, policy ideas, and ideological and political battles that have shaped Egyptian education, from the era of nation-building in the twentieth century to the age of digital disruption in the twenty-first. From the 1952 revolution onward, a main purpose of formal education in Egypt was to socialize children and youth into adopting certain attitudes and behaviors conducive to the regimes in power. Control by the state over education was never entirely hegemonic. National education came increasingly under pressure due to a combination of the growing privatization of the education sector, the growth of political Islam, and rapidly changing digital technologies. Educating Egypt traces the everyday practices, policy ideas, and ideological and political and economic contests over education from the era of nation-building in the twentieth century to the age of global change and digital disruption in the twenty-first. Its overarching theme is that schooling and education, broadly defined, have consistently mirrored larger debates about what constitutes the model citizen and the educated person. Drawing on three decades of ethnographic research inside Egyptian schools and among Egyptian youth, Linda Herrera asks what happens when education actors harbor fundamentally different ideas about the purpose, provision, and meaning of education. Her research shows that, far from serving as a unifying social force, education is in reality an ongoing battleground of interests, ideas, and visions of the good society.

Egyptian Students and Politics beyond Protest Farah Ramzy, 2025-02-10 This book examines how the evolution of higher education in Egypt affects students and student politics. It aims to look beyond the historical representations of the student movement as protests for national and regional causes in order to account for the impact of the socio-economic shift in the 1990s, the revolution in 2011, and the restrictive context post-2013. Egyptian Students and Politics beyond Protest uncovers the diverse locations where politics emerge among students such as student unions, partisan student organizations, student clubs and associations including simulation models, in addition to activist groups. The book draws on interviews conducted in Egypt between 2013 and 2015 with members of these groups and ethnographic observation of their activities. As students collectively and individually negotiate the scope of their political activities and the meanings they attribute to these activities, the resulting student politics are, not only diverse, but also unexpected.

Institutional Reforms, Governance, and Services Delivery in the Global South Hamid E. Ali, Shahjahan Bhuiyan, 2021-11-24 This edited book explores the link between institutional reforms, governance and services delivery in the Global South, mapping how and to what extent resource-poor governments deliver public services to their citizens. The book concludes that delivery of public services responsibly and efficiently remains largely unachievable because of weaker institutions and poor quality of governance in the Global South countries. Reforms to governance and institutions are generally considered fitting measures to overcome public service delivery challenges.
