The Changed Life: How COVID-19 Affected People's Psychological Well-Being, Feelings, Thoughts, Behavior, Relations, Language and Communication Ramona Bongelli,Alessandra Fermani,Daniela Raccanello,Rob Hall,Ilaria Riccioni,Morena Muzi,Roberto Burro,2023-10-30 Covid-19 changed the lives of millions of people around the world. The effects of the global pandemic on the physical and psychological health of individuals, as well as on their behavioral habits, relationships, and the way they communicate, do not seem to be only short- or medium-term, but, on the contrary, appear to be long-lasting. In the same way that it is possible to use the term “long-covid” to refer to the long-term effects on the physical health of individuals who have contracted the virus, so we think it is possible to use the expression 'psychological long-covid' to indicate the long-term effects on the psychological health of individuals, not only of those who have been infected, but more generally of all those who have had to cope with social restrictions, lockdowns, distancing, remote work and learning, etc. imposed by the pandemic. At the same time, many people demonstrated resilience, as the capacity to cope with adverse events through positive adaptation.

Internet and Smartphone Use-Related Addiction Health Problems Olatz Lopez-Fernandez,2021-08-31 This Special Issue presents some of the main emerging research on technological topics of health and education approaches to Internet use-related problems, before and during the beginning of coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19). The objective is to provide an overview to facilitate a comprehensive and practical approach to these new trends to promote research, interventions, education, and prevention. It contains 40 papers, four reviews and thirty-five empirical papers and an editorial introducing everything in a rapid review format. Overall, the empirical ones are of a relational type, associating specific behavioral addictive problems with individual factors, and a few with contextual factors, generally in adult populations. Many have adapted scales to measure these problems, and a few cover experiments and mixed methods studies. The reviews tend to be about the concepts and measures of these problems, intervention options, and prevention. In summary, it seems that these are a global culture trend impacting health and educational domains. Internet use-related addiction problems have emerged in almost all societies, and strategies to cope with them are under development to offer solutions to these contemporary challenges, especially during the pandemic situation that has highlighted the global health problems that we have, and how to holistically tackle them.

Medical Education in Uncertain Times: Threats, Challenges, and Opportunities of COVID-19 Changiz Mohiyeddini, Stephen Francis Loftus, Phyllis May-Ling Chua, 2024-09-05 The World Health Organization declared “coronavirus disease 2019” (COVID-19) a pandemic on March 12, 2020. As of July 20, 2020, Covid-19 has infected more than 14.5 million people globally, with over 600 thousand human lives lost. These figures are rising exponentially, and the long-term impact of this pandemic is still unknown. Therefore, the WHO has issued guidelines for containing, mitigating, and limiting the negative impacts of this pandemic. Obviously, both Covid-19 and the extraordinary measures to contain it are having an enormous impact on medical education. Globally, the COVID-19 pandemic has forced medical education towards more “online-education” approaches, with implications for medical educators and learners.

How Workplace Behaviors Impact Mental Health: Does Diversity Matter? Vasiliki Eirini Chatzea, Dimitra Sifaki-Pistolla, Enkeleint A. Mechili, 2025-05-14 The recent unprecedented societal challenges along with the COVID-19 pandemic have opened the door to a new era for mental health at work. Today, more than ever provides an opportunity to highlight the mental health challenges that employees are facing due to their working conditions and occupational environments. Around the globe, it is well documented that promoting and establishing mentally healthy workplaces is a focal point. However, according to the literature, individuals of diverse identities and backgrounds (e.g., racial, or ethnic minorities, LGBTQ+ community, migrants/refugees, the Roma community, religiously diverse individuals, people of lower economic/social status, pregnant women, etc.) are presenting an increased risk of discrimination and stigma, leading to major adverse effects on their mental health. Where mental health conditions can begin and worsen in the workplace due to occupational conditions and behaviors, the impact of this continues outside of the workplace, and can severely impact an individual’s overall quality of life. This Research Topic aims to offer a holistic insight into the current state of mental health conditions/disorders among employees of diverse or minority groups before, during and post the COVID-19 pandemic. This collection not only aims to capture the extent of the mental health impact, and report on common work-related mental health disorders (e.g., depression, stress, distress, anxiety, burnout, low well-being, poor quality of life, etc.) amongst these populations, but to open the discussion towards addressing and tackling the inequalities and stigma associated with protected characteristics in workplace environments and to propose preventive measures/interventions to enhance workplace resilience, and ensure that mental health is upheld for all both in and outside of the workplace. In addition, mapping out the current issues and needs by providing data and policy measures is crucial in meeting the United Nations 3.4 Universal Health Coverage goal regarding promoting populations' mental health and well-being.
