Between Preservation and Exploitation Kemi Fuentes-George, 2016-03-25 A study of biodiversity governance analyzes the factors that determine the effectiveness of transnational advocacy networks and the importance of justice claims to conservation. In the late 2000s, ordinary citizens in Jamaica and Mexico demanded that government put a stop to lucrative but environmentally harmful economic development activities—bauxite mining in Jamaica and large-scale tourism and overfishing on the eastern coast of the Yucatán Peninsula. In each case, the catalyst for the campaign was information gathered and disseminated by transnational advocacy networks (TANs) of researchers, academics, and activists. Both campaigns were successful despite opposition from industry supporters. Meanwhile, simultaneous campaigns to manage land in another part of the Yucatán and to conserve migratory birds in Egypt had far less success. In this book, Kemi Fuentes-George uses these four cases to analyze factors that determine the success or failure of efforts by TANs to persuade policymakers and private sector actors in developing countries to change environmental behavior. Fuentes-George argues that in order to influence the design and implementation of policy, TANs must generate a scientific consensus, create social relationships with local actors, and advocate for biodiversity in a way that promotes local environmental justice. Environmentally just policies would allow local populations access to their lands provided they use natural resources sustainably. Justice claims are also more likely to generate needed support among local groups for conservation projects. In their conservation efforts, Jamaica, Mexico, and Egypt were attempting to meet their obligations under the UN Convention on Biological Diversity and other regional agreements. Fuentes-George's innovative analysis shows the importance of local environmental justice for the implementation of international environmental treaties.

Derecho ambiental y gobernanza : la concertación como actuación informal de la Administración Erika Castro,2018-02-02

La práctica jurídico-administrativa pone de relieve la presencia habitual de formas de actuación administrativa basadas en la deliberación y concertación con grupos ciudadanos, cuyo propósito es alcanzar objetivos de interés público. A pesar de su importante desarrollo, estas actuaciones han tenido un escaso estudio por la doctrina colombiana debido a la ausencia de encaje con el sistema de actos jurídico-públicos tradicionales, lo que ha ameritado que la doctrina extranjera les otorgue el nombre de actuaciones informales. Este concepto ha sido ilustrado por Schmidt Assmann (1993a, pág. 29) como situaciones de mixtura en las que unas veces algunos elementos característicos –como, por ejemplo, la voluntad de vincular o el ámbito de la regulación– resultan inciertos, mientras que en otras ocasiones plantean propiamente dificultades a la hora de clasificarlos dentro de las diversas formas disponibles¹. El interés de este trabajo en el estudio de la actuación informal basada en procesos de concertación de la Administración con la ciudadanía se fundamenta en dos razones: primera, la revisión que de los fundamentos dogmáticos y de la doctrina de las formas jurídicas implica este tipo de actuaciones; y, segunda, la incorporación de nuevos modelos regulativos y de gobernanza pública que promueven la superación de la percepción tradicional de la separación Estado-sociedad, hacia un modelo de integración e interdependencia (distribución de responsabilidades) que contribuye a la legitimidad de los poderes públicos.
