Italo Calvino's Architecture of Lightness Letizia Modena, 2011-05-09 This study recovers Italo Calvino's central place in a lost history of interdisciplinary thought, politics, and literary philosophy in the 1960s. Drawing on his letters, essays, critical reviews, and fiction, as well as a wide range of works--primarily urban planning and design theory and history--circulating among his primary interlocutors, this book takes as its point of departure a sweeping reinterpretation of Invisible Cities. Passages from Calvino's most famous novel routinely appear as aphorisms in calendars, posters, and the popular literature of inspiration and self-help, reducing the novel to vague abstractions and totalizing wisdom about thinking outside the box. The shadow of postmodern studies has had a similarly diminishing effect on this text, rendering up an accomplished but ultimately apolitical novelistic experimentation in endless deconstructive deferrals, the shiny surfaces of play, and the ultimately rigged game of self-referentiality. In contrast, this study draws on an archive of untranslated Italian- and French-language materials on urban planning, architecture, and utopian architecture to argue that Calvino's novel in fact introduces readers to the material history of urban renewal in Italy, France, and the U.S. in the 1960s, as well as the multidisciplinary core of cultural life in that decade: the complex and continuous interplay among novelists and architects, scientists and artists, literary historians and visual studies scholars. His last love poem for the dying city was in fact profoundly engaged, deeply committed to the ethical dimensions of both architecture and lived experience in the spaces of modernity as well as the resistant practices of reading and utopian imagining that his urban studies in turn inspired.

B@belonline vol. speciale 2021 Il nuovo atlante di Sophia/ Sophia's New Atlas Francesca Brezzi, Francesca Gambetti, Maria Teresa Pansera, 2021-03-23 Questo numero speciale di B@belonline, vuole essere una sorta di instant-book sulle tematiche tragiche del 2020, un anno in cui il mondo è stato colpito da una pandemia devastante e inaspettata, i cui effetti sulla vita personale, comunitaria e sociale aumentano con il trascorrere del tempo. La scienza in tutte le sue declinazioni ha parlato, non solo tecnici e economisti, ma anche sociologi e psicologi; da tutti una parola di autorevolezza, finora unici punti di riferimento per noi smarriti abitanti di un mondo improvvisamente deserto. In questa agorà forse è mancata la parola di filosofe/i, proprio quando invece sarebbe stata necessaria anche una riflessione critica da parte loro. Ma di quale filosofia si tratta? Certamente di quella turbata e smarrita, non di quella trionfante, dispensatrice di certezze, quella del quaerere non dell'affirmare, quella del "pensiero senza ringhiera" di Hannah Arendt. Nella consapevolezza della profonda influenza che linguaggio e pensiero esercitano sulla realtà e viceversa, il fascicolo raccoglie una piccola ma significativa costellazione di termini chiave destinati non solo agli addetti ai lavori, ma a tutti coloro che, frastornati e in cerca di senso, trovano nel lessico filosofico una lente per comprendere la difficile realtà presente. L'Atlante si divide in due parti: la prima raccoglie i lemmi 'decostruttivi', che prendendo atto della situazione critica, cercano di chiarire e mettere a tema gli aspetti 'negativi' della pandemia. La seconda parte invece presenta quelli che possono essere i termini positivi, che permettono di vedere la luce in fondo al tunnel e di costruire una nuova concezione della comunità umana e della biosfera. Anche in una devastante pandemia infatti può esserci del buono, si può apprendere come affrontare l'inatteso, come agire per il futuro, come comportarsi affinché ci sia un futuro. This special edition of B@belonline aims to be a kind of instant book on the tragic themes of 2020. During this year the world was hit by a shocking and devastating pandemic, whose effects on personal lives, communities and societies have intensified with the passage of time. Science, in all its guises, has addressed these issues. Not only technical experts and economists but also sociologists and psychologists, have provided authoritative views that have been the only compass for all of us, inhabitants of a world that suddenly became deserted. In this market square of thoughts, one voice has perhaps been missing, the philosophers' voice, right at that time when a critical reflection from them would have been needed. But which type of philosophy? A perturbed and lost philosophy, for sure, rather than a triumphant, self-assured, certain philosophy. A philosophy of quaerere rather than affirmare, the philosophy of the "thought without barriers" espoused by Hannah Arendt. Aware of the profound influence that language and thought exert on reality, and vice versa, this edition contains a small but significant constellation of keywords. They are aimed not only at the experts but also at those who, discombobulated and in search of meaning, find in a philosophical lexicon a useful lens to comprehend current difficulties. The Atlas is split into two parts. The first focuses on the "deconstructive" keywords. Taking note of the critical situation, these words try to clarify the "negative" aspects of the pandemic. The second part, on the other hand, focuses on those keywords that can be regarded as positive. They allow us to see the light at the end of the tunnel and to build a new concept of the human community and of the biosphere. Even in a devastating pandemic some good can be found, we can learn how to face the unexpected, how to act in the future and how to act to ensure there is a future. DOI: 10.13134/2531-8624/202103/1

Lezioni americane Italo Calvino, 2012-07-17 La Leggerezza, la Rapidità, l'Esattezza, la Visibilità, la Molteplicità dovrebbero in realtà informare non soltanto l'attività degli scrittori ma ogni gesto della nostra troppo sciatta, svagata esistenza. (Dalla quarta di copertina di Gian Carlo Roscioni alla prima edizione)

Tra il cristallo e la fiamma ADRIANO PIACENTINI, 2014-07-26 Un testo fondamentale per comprendere il pensiero e lo stile di Italo Calvino Le Lezioni Americane raccolgono le conferenze che Italo Calvino aveva preparato per le Charles Eliot Norton Poetry Lectures e che la prematura scomparsa gli impedì di leggere. Ma le Lezioni sono molto di più di un ciclo di conferenze: sono racconti, sono storia di letteratura, scienza e filosofia, sono autobiografia, sono un intreccio infinito di relazioni tra cose, idee e fatti della vita. Come ebbe a dire Maria Corti, che cura una bellissima prefazione al volume, mai Italo Calvino si sarebbe immaginato che dalle sue Lezioni Americane sarebbero nate tante suggestioni e addirittura un vastissimo discorso teorico-critico definibile in termini medievali una summa ... con la ricerca di Adriano Piacentini la realtà è un'altra: il menage à trois di letteratura, filosofia e scienza, passa qui al vaglio dell'io di uno studioso che ha rivissuto la vicenda calviniana, misurandosi con il fascino di una summa letteraria occidentale con tutte le sue tensioni cognitive. Cristallo e fiamma, due forme di bellezza perfetta da cui lo sguardo non sa staccarsi, due modi di crescita nel tempo, di spesa della materia circostante, due simboli morali, due assoluti, due categorie per classificare fatti e idee e stili e sentimenti. Cristallo e fiamma interpretano le due diverse pulsioni conoscitive di Calvino ed assieme compongono l'emblema che le riassume. Ancora Maria Corti: A Calvino piacerebbe questa summa, che ha reso il proprio messaggio un prezioso patrimonio personale e collettivo, sempre più vicino a quello che lo scrittore ha voluto dire.
