The Complete Guide to Business Process Management Jean-Noël Gillot,2008

Official Gazette Philippines,2012

Business Process Management Mathias Weske,2012-05-03 Business process management is usually treated from two different perspectives: business administration and computer science. While business administration professionals tend to consider information technology as a subordinate aspect in business process management for experts to handle, by contrast computer science professionals often consider business goals and organizational regulations as terms that do not deserve much thought but require the appropriate level of abstraction. Matthias Weske argues that all communities involved need to have a common understanding of the different aspects of business process management. To this end, he details the complete business process lifecycle from the modeling phase to process enactment and improvement, taking into account all different stakeholders involved. After starting with a presentation of general foundations and abstraction models, he explains concepts like process orchestrations and choreographies, as well as process properties and data dependencies. Finally, he presents both traditional and advanced business process management architectures, covering, for example, workflow management systems, service-oriented architectures, and data-driven approaches. In addition, he shows how standards like WfMC, SOAP, WSDL, and BPEL fit into the picture. This textbook is ideally suited for classes on business process management, information systems architecture, and workflow management. This 2nd edition contains major updates on BPMN Version 2 process orchestration and process choreographies, and the chapter on BPM methodologies has been completely rewritten. The accompanying website www.bpm-book.com contains further information and additional teaching material.

The Fundamentals of Business Process Management Surbhi Jain, 2022-12 Business executive processes are not as laser-centered on seeing through a task from beginning to end, as they are centered around arranging and extending the eventual fate of organizational activities. An illustration of a process management may be a CEO determining how best to put together the marketing group's time and energy for a PR set-off campaign. Process involves distributing resources, characterizing time spans, and making sure that the structures are set up and upgraded. Functional processes operational cycles concern business process. This field is concerned with dissecting, planning, carrying out, and constantly working on hierarchical cycles. While former contributions zeroed in on the (re-)plan of single cycles, modern research requires an all-encompassing perspective on the administration of business processes (BPs). With that in mind, this volume presents business process as an incorporated arrangement of corporate skills associated with vital structure, administration, techniques, innovation, individuals, and culture. The volume provides significant standards of process thinking, portraying the fundamental ability of business process, and examining settings as a significant achievement variable in business process.

Business Process Management Cases Jan vom Brocke, Jan Mendling, 2017-08-10 This book is the first to present a rich selection of over 30 real-world cases of how leading organizations conduct Business Process Management (BPM). All cases are presented using a uniform structure in order to provide valuable insights and essential guidance for students and practitioners.

Business Process on-Demand; Studying the Enterprise Cloud Computing and its Role in Green IT Seyed Amir

Beheshti, 2011-08-24 Master's Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Engineering - Industrial Engineering and Management, grade: 1, Vienna University of Technology, course: Business Engineering and Computer Science, language: English, abstract: Climate change and the impact it has on our lives have forced many governmental and also non-governmental organizations to conceive of new rules, regulations, and standards to control CO2 and greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. Calculating the energy efficiency and reducing the electricity consumption in data centers are important steps towards greening the IT in organizations. Several studies have shown that by migrating into the cloud, companies in most cases could reduce their costs in addition to decreasing their greenhouse gas emissions. Unfortunately, lack of guidelines and varying and limited services from different cloud providers, have made the adoption of appropriate Cloud services a challenge for many organizations. In this regard, there is a vital need to study and analyze available services from different cloud vendors and provide enterprises with the best solutions available regarding their specific business requirements. This thesis focuses on cloud computing and its efficiency for individual organizations. It attempts to study the potential benefits of cloud computing by taking the environmental and energy consumption advantages into consideration. Cloud Computing is not a new concept and has been a hype term in recent years. Cloud computing is based on the available technologies and it is all about using a new term for the existing technologies. But the question is why to create a new name for what already exists? The answer to this question is closely related to the potential that Cloud computing has for organizations. It is all about conversion of capital expenditure (CAPEX) to the operational expenditure (OPEX) and the possible advantages that this conversion could have for any organization that chooses to migrate into the Cloud. In the following, upon introducing the cloud computing concept and its related technologies, business functions and processes, information systems available for enterprises are explored. Later, based on the required business processes and functions of organizations, a comprehensive market analysis is carried out. For this purpose different cloud providers and their available services are analyzed. I developed an ontology for cloud computing based on the market analysis. This thesis is an attempt to make the process of mapping business processes/functions to cloud services easier by providing organizations with a matrix of cloud services/business processes (distribution of market) and an ontology for cloud computing.
