Thebes 338 B.C.E. Edward Mallon, 2022-03-02 This historical novel is set in ancient Greece during a crucial two year period from 338 - 336 B.C.E. The young poet Aristides, outside the city of Thebes, narrates his life from age 14 to 16 and near his death at 70 in Egypt as he looks back upon his life's journey. It is the time of King Philip II of Macedon and his son Alexander, (18-20) soon to be the Great. The intrigue, struggle for love and power in the royal court of kings, is the background as Aristides comes of age. After a fierce battle on the fields of Chaeronea, King Philip's military genius defeats the combined armies of Athens, Thebes, and their many allies. He now becomes the master of all the Greek City-States except Sparta. Aristides, the poet and creator of stories, is captured and tasked to write the King's exploits in verse so that Philip can become immortal like Achilles in Homer's great poem The Iliad. In such an environment, Aristides grows from a naive boy into a young man searching for the answers to life's many challenges. Will he find love, fulfillment, purpose? This is the story of Thebes 338 B.C.E. as the poet searches for the meaning of his life. Near his life's end in the city of Alexandria under the rule of Ptolemy, the first Greek Pharaoh of Egypt, Aristides is struck, like a bolt of lightning, with enlightenment in the arms of his most beloved. This divine knowledge is his gift to us as he writes the story of his life. He lived under three great kings, Philip, Alexander, and Ptolemy, when the world was ablaze with wonder and excitement. It was a time when the ancient gods were feared, honored, and appeased. It was a time when the world was young. It is a time of rebirth for us where we all can be young again.

Muslim Custodians of Jewish Spaces in Morocco Cory Thomas Pechan Driver, 2018-04-16 Exploring the roles of Muslim guards and guides in Jewish cemeteries in Morocco, Cory Thomas Pechan Driver suggests that these custodians use performances of ritual and caring acts for Jewish graves for multiple reasons. Imazighen [Berbers] stress their close ties with Jews in order to create a moral self intentionally set apart from the mono-ethically Arab and mono-religiously Muslim Morocco. Other subjects, and particularly women, use their ties with Jewish sites to harness power and prestige in their communities. Others still may care for these grave sites to express grief for a close Jewish friend or adoptive family. In examining these motives, Driver not only documents the flow of material and spiritual capital across religious lines, but also moves beyond Muslim memory of the past on the one hand and Jewish dread of the future on the other to think about the Muslim/Jewish present in Morocco.

All The Rest Is Lies J. A. Fox, 2013-09-23 In the heart of England, the scheming son of an ailing aristocrat has plans for the family company when his sick father finally expires and allows him to inherit the family estate. But though he needs this to happen soon, timing is everything and there are reasons why the Earl can't expire too soon. But with the aid of his surgeon cousin, son Malcolm is working on plans to ensure that will happen when he wants it to and not a moment before. He is unaware though, that his ailing father also has plans to deprive him of his inheritance and replace him with a almost forgotten sibling. In the meantime, across the pond in Cleveland, a lonely Carl receives a very tempting offer which has him travelling to England, his place of birth. Here he will not only meet the girl of his dreams but come face to face with his roots and his scheming half-brother who holds his very survival in his hands.
