Thomas H. Hohenshil, Norman E. Amundson, Spencer G. Niles

Counseling Around the World Thomas H. Hohenshil, Norman E. Amundson, Spencer G. Niles, 2015-01-12 This fascinating book provides a global exchange of information about counseling activities and services; counselor training; and existing professional practices, beliefs, and values. Native counselors and leading experts from 40 countries discuss the opportunities for growth in their countries and the challenges they face. After an introductory section that discusses global diversity themes and issues, chapters focus on key countries in Africa, Asia, Europe, the Middle East, North America, Oceania, and South and Central America. Each chapter covers the history and current state of counseling in the country, theories and techniques that have been shown to work best in meeting the needs of the population, diversity issues specific to the region, counselor education and training, and possibilities for the future of counseling in the country. A comprehensive list of international resources and counseling organizations is also included. *Requests for digital versions from ACA can be found on www.wiley.com. *To purchase print copies, please visit the ACA website *Reproduction requests for material from books published by ACA should be directed to publications@counseling.org.

Interprofessional Ethics Donna McAuliffe, 2021-10-22 The social work, health and human services sectors employ a variety of professionals to provide care to people. There is an increasing need for practitioners to be skilled in ethical decision making as the professional practice context becomes more complex and concerned with risk management. Interprofessional Ethics explores the ethical frameworks, policies and procedures of professional practice for multidisciplinary teams in health, government and community-based workplaces. The second edition includes content on criminology, environmental practice, youth work practice, the intersection of law and ethics, and cultural content, including non-Western philosophies and Indigenous worldviews. New 'Through the eyes of a practitioner' boxes provide insight into the professional experiences of practitioners in the field, while reflection points and links to further readings encourage students to think critically about the content. Interprofessional Ethics encourages readers to better understand the perspectives, approaches and values of others, preparing them to work within collaborative teams.

A Century of Psychology in Australia William Matthew O'Neil, 1987 This book is about people, events and some of the controversies and problems associated with the development of psychology in Australia over the last hundred years. It focuses on teaching and training in psychology, the development of psychology as a professional service, and the formation of a national psychological society. Psychology in Australia had its beginnings in the teaching of philosophy in the original universities from the 1880s. Its various applications flourished in the 1930s and during World War II, leading to an explosion of psychological services in the 1950s and an expansion of university teaching and research. In the final chapter the nature of recent Australian psychology is characterised - its major interests and emphases in teaching, research and practice.
