Letters from a Father to His Daughter JAWAHARLAL. NEHRU, 2025-01-09 Jawaharlal Nehru (November 14, 1889-May 27, 1964), India's first Prime Minister, was a visionary statesman and a distinguished scholar. Played a pivotal role in the Indian independence movement. A graduate of Harrow, Eton, and Trinity College, Cambridge, Nehru was deeply influenced by Western thought but remained committed to India's rich cultural heritage. His writings, from Discovery of India to Letters from a Father to His Daughter, reflect his profound understanding of history, science, and the human condition. Nehru's legacy continues to inspire generations of Indians and people worldwide who value knowledge, progress, and democracy. Letters from a Father to His Daughter is a timeless collection of letters written by Jawaharlal Nehru to his young daughter, Indira Gandhi, while he was imprisoned in 1928. He was a great scholar and visionary. Though intended to bridge the physical distance between them, these letters transcend the personal, becoming a window into Nehru's thoughts on history, science, nature, and human progress. In simple, clear prose, Nehru introduces young readers to the wonders of the world, while offering valuable insights into the values of curiosity, education, and open-mindedness. His knowledge and understanding about all these subjects was commendable. He wanted to convey and share all this to his daughter through these letters. Moreover he loved nature so much that he focussed on the information related to nature. This book is not just for young readers, but for anyone who seeks inspiration from a father's wisdom and a leader's vision. Nehru's letters are an invaluable reminder that curiosity and learning are the cornerstones of a brighter, more informed future. The book, therefore, is seen as a key work that not only offers personal insights but also serves as a powerful educational tool for generations to come.

A Father's Verses Bhushan Kulkarni,2025-10-08 Dear Reader, In 1928, a father wrote a series of letters to his ten-year-old daughter, unfolding the grand story of our world-from the birth of stars to the rise of civilizations. These letters, tender and wise, became Letters from a Father to His Daughter, a book that has inspired generations to see history not as dry facts, but as a living, breathing adventure. This book, A Father's Verses, reimagines Jawaharlal Nehru's timeless lessons as poetry. Why poetry? Because just as Nehru believed that a child's curiosity is the key to understanding the universe, poetry is the key to unlocking wonder. It turns the slow cooling of the Earth into a lullaby, the first flicker of fire into a rhyme, and the epics of India into a ballad sung by time itself. Here, you'll find Nehru's original ideas preserved like fossils in amber, but set free in stanzas that dance. Each poem is paired with a snippet of his words, so you can hear both the father's voice and the poet's echo. The illustrations? They're windows into a child's imagination-where dinosaurs wear monsoons as necklaces, and the moon whispers secrets to the Himalayas. This book is for: Children who ask How? and Why? (and adults who still do). Dreamers who see history as a story, not a syllabus. Fathers, mothers, and teachers who know that the smallest questions (What is civilization?) have the biggest answers. Nehru wrote to Indira: The real way to understand history is to look upon it as an adventure. So turn the page, and let the adventure begin-one verse at a time. Bhushan Kulkarni
