Jean A. Ellis

This is the Dreaming Jean A. Ellis, 1998 A companion to the author's popular 'From the Dreamtime: Australian Aboriginal legends'. This collection has been drawn from Aboriginal groups throughout Australia and includes stories about the turtle, the kangaroo, the owl, the platypus, the willy wagtail, the snake and the stars. Other stories focus on human virtues and vices and on questions relating to creation and life and death. Includes art work and a glossary.

The Dreamtime Charles P Mountford, 2020-04-24 The Dreamtime is one of the greatest Australian publishing successes. The first edition was published in 1965, and fifteen impressions were issued to meet the constant demand. This is the first electronic edition. The original concept of the paintings was developed by an association between Ainslie Roberts and Charles Mountford. Mr Roberts had made extensive painting tours through remote outback regions, and Mr Mountford, of course, is well known for his anthropological work among the Aboriginal peoples. including Nomads of the Australian Desert. Other books in the series include Dreamtime Heritage, Shadows in the Mist, The First Sunrise and The Dawn of Time.

Aboriginal Mythology Mudrooroo, 2018-09-01 Aboriginals believe they have lived in Australia since the Dreamtime, the beginning of all creation, and archaeological evidence shows the land has been inhabited for tens of thousands of years. Over this time, Aboriginal culture has grown a rich variety of mythologies in hundreds of different languages. Their unifying feature is a shared belief that the whole universe is alive, that we belong to the land and must care for it. This was the first book to collate and explain the many fascinating elements of Aboriginal culture: the song circles and stories, artefacts, landmarks, characters and customs.

Australian Aboriginal Studies, 2003

Australian Dreaming Jennifer Isaacs, 2005 40,000 years of Aboriginal history told through Aboriginal story-tellers. Australian Dreaming is the first Aboriginal history of the Australian continent and its people, as told by the Aboriginal story-tellers. Through traditional myths and legends, it gives an explanation of the formation of the landscape and creation of many outstanding geographical features. It recounts epic travels of the great Spirit Ancestors and tells how they created the animals and plants and gave birth to the earliest people of this land. It tells, also, how the Ancestors taught the Aboriginal people to live in harmony with nature and how to behave towards each other, thus setting the pattern of Aboriginal culture for over 40,000 years.

Explorations of Variability in Australian Prehistoric Rock Engravings Natalie R. Franklin, 2004 This book sets out to increase the archaeological usefulness of rock art by exploring the degree of spatial variation within a particular corpus of Australian prehistoric rock engravings labelled the Panaramitee style. Spatial variation within the Panaramitee is explored using correspondence analysis and cluster analysis of motif proportions between sites, coefficients of diversity and presence/absence of motifs. A master typology was established, and counts of motifs were made at sites across the continent. It was found that there was both inter- and intra-regional variation in terms of differing emphases on motifs within an overall restricted range across the continent. The comparative homogeneity and widespread distribution of the Panaramitee corresponded with the possible function of the art to cement social networks between widely dispersed groups. The use of nonfigurative motifs in symbolic systems also helps to explain the persistence of an overall pattern of similarity over a prolonged period of time.
