The Russia-Ukraine War: A Manifestation of the 'New Cold War'? Karim Fathi, 2025-07-27 The war in Ukraine has captivated the world. Current coverage is emotional and largely limited to the military aspects of the war. Contributions from Peace and Conflict Studies have been under-represented in the current debate. They are even subject to anti-pacifist criticism. The question of what is needed for a lasting peace is hardly addressed. This question is all the more important as this war has a highly explosive global dimension in its depth, with indirect links to other territorial conflicts, such as the China-Taiwan conflict. In parallel with the war, there is a growing global bloc between East and West and, since Donald Trump took office in January 2025, an internal split in the West with an uncertain outcome. Some observers speak of a 'New Cold War' with the two superpowers, the US and China, and the EU and Russia as the main players. At the same time, the war seems to be acting as a catalyst for a new multilateral world order. The book outlines in a concise and generally understandable form how a multidimensional analysis of complex conflicts such as the Russia-Ukraine war can be approached and how approaches to conflict intervention and foreign policy can be derived from this complexity. It also provides impetus for the further development of Peace Studies into a multi-paradigmatic field of research.

Out of the USSR Eva Hausbacher, Viola Parente-Čapková, Arja Rosenholm, Marja Anneli Sorvari, 2025-08-04 This book examines how women authors recall their own and their families' past lives after having emigrated from the Soviet Union in the 1990s, and how they reflect on their new country of residence, be it Germany, Austria, Israel, USA, or Finland, among others. The chapters connect migration, memory, and gender studies to analyse literary presentations created by these travelling women. The aim of the book is to pay attention both to women's contribution to cultural transfer, and to the mobility of memories: for the first time, it brings women's narratives as a form and tool to work through both individual and collective traumas to the forefront, remedying a long-standing omission in Russian and post-Soviet migration history. At the same time, the volume looks at travelling memories and cultural traumas from a gendered perspective: what happens when the recollections of women's traumatic experiences of Soviet history travel through time and space? As this volume argues, narratives by women who left the Soviet Union often call into question official accounts of Soviet history, and rewrite them in a way that makes room for gendered lived experience.

Peace, a Topic in European History Text-books? Caspar Kuhlmann, 1985 War and violence are of eminent importance in the accounts of history in our school text-books. The author examines whether efforts to mitigate violence and to strengthen peace are given similar weight in standard history books used in the schools of the Federal Republic of Germany and other European countries such as England, France, Switzerland, the German Democratic Republic, and Poland.
