

Bad Man Dathan Auerbach

Ellen Datlow

Bad Man Dathan Auerbach, 2019-08-27 From Dathan Auerbach, the author of the horror sensation Penpal, a hauntingly dark novel about a young boy who goes missing, and the brother who won't stop looking for him. Eric disappeared when he was three years old. Ben looked away for only a second at the grocery store, but that was all it took. His brother was gone. Vanished into the sticky air of the Florida Panhandle. Five years later, Ben is still looking for his brother. Still searching, while his stepmother sits and waits and whispers for Eric, refusing to leave the house that Ben's father can no longer afford. Now twenty and desperate for work, Ben takes a job on the night stock crew at the only place that will have him: the store that blinked Eric out of existence. Ben can feel there's something wrong there. With the people. With his boss. With the graffitied baler that shudders and groans and beckons. But he's in the right place. He knows the store has much to show him, so he keeps searching. Except Ben misses the most important thing of all. That he should have stopped looking.

The Bad Man A Novel Porter Emerson Browne, 2020-01-11 Excerpt: Looking back now, after so many months of struggle and foreboding, he wondered how he had ever had the high courage to come to this strange country. Had he been a few years older he would not have started forth—he was sure of that now. But the flame of youth was in him, the sure sense that he could conquer where others had miserably failed; and, like all virile young Americans, he had love of adventure, and zest for the unknown was in his blood. The glamour of Arizona lured him; the color of these great hills and mountains he had come to love captivated him from the first. It was as if a siren beckoned, and he had to follow. For days he had been worried almost to the breaking point. Things had not shaped themselves as he had planned. Event piled upon event, and now disaster—definite disaster—threatened to descend upon him. All morning, despite the intense heat, he had been about the ranch, appraising this and that, mentally; pottering in the shed; looking at his horses—the few that were left!—smiling at the thought of his wheezing Ford, wondering just when he would clear out altogether. Not that young Gilbert Jones was a pessimist. And yet he wasn't one of those damnable Pollyanna optimists he so abominated—the kind who went about saying continually that God was in His heaven and all was right with the world. No, indeed! He was just a normal, regular fellow, ready to face a difficult situation when it came about as the natural result of a series of events. He saw the impending catastrophe as the logical finale of many happenings—for some of which he was not in any way responsible.

The Bad Man Charles Hanson Towne, 2009-04 Charles Hanson Towne (1877-1949) was an American author, poet, editor and lecturer. He was an editorial assistant for Cosmopolitan magazine before working as an editor on a number of magazines such as: The Smart Set (1904), The Delineator (1907-1910), Designer (1910-1915), McClure's (1914-1920), and Harper's Bazaar (1926-1929). He also wrote a column for the New York American and taught a poetry course at Columbia University. His works include: The Quiet Singer and Other Poems (1908), Manhattan (1909), Youth and Other Poems (1910), Beyond the Stars and Other Poems (1912), To-day and To-morrow (1916), A World of Windows (1919), The Bad Man (1921), Ambling Through Acadia (1923), Roosevelt as the Poets Saw Him (with Clara Thackeray Hillman) (1923), Adventures in Editing (1926) and So Far, So Good (1945).
